Farmers' bandh hits normal life at many places

Shops shut, public transport off roads in Punjab, Haryana, Kerala

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

NORMAL life was thrown out of gear on Monday in several parts of the country as farmer unions blocked highways and roads, and squatted on railway tracks as part of a 10-hour shutdown to protest against the Centre's agri laws. Thousands of people were stranded on the roads for hours, especially in the Delhi National Capital Region. Several trains were cancelled in Delhi, Ambala and Firozpur divisions.

The impact of the bandh was felt in Delhi NCR, Punjab, Haryana, Uttar Pradesh, Kerala, Bihar, Jharkhand, West Bengal and Odisha.

The Samyukta Kisan Morcha, an umbrella body of 40 farmer unions, claimed the strike was a success and no untoward incident was reported from anywhere. Emergency services were not affected as the morcha had issued specific instructions in this regard. In Punjab, farmers held dharnas at about 500 venues. A complete shutdown was observed in the state with transport services being suspended and commercial establishments shut. In Kerala, where the strike was supported by both the ruling CPM and the opposition Congress, shops were shut and public transport was hit.

Protests were also seen in West Bengal, where the Left Front backed the call for a shutdown. Reacting to reports of massive traffic jam in Delhi NCR, BKU leader Rakesh Tikait said those who faced inconvenience due to the shutdown should forget it for the farmers' sake. "Some people may have faced inconvenience due to the Bharat Bandh, which is natural, but they should forget it for just one day in the name of farmers," Tikait said.

The union leader added that in a democracy, there is no other option but to protest and warned the government that the farmers would go back to their homes only after the laws are abolished. P10

Lukewarm response in Karnataka

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

@ Bengaluru

THE Bharat Bandh call given by Samyukta Kisan Morcha protesting against the Centre's farm laws evoked a lukewarm response across Karnataka on Monday, while some parts experienced traffic snarls. The bandh was limited to rallies and protests, without affecting business or transport.

In Bengaluru, too, the bandh had little effect with all modes of transport and businesses running as usual. As farmers took out a rally, traffic was thrown out of gear despite the traffic police diverting vehicular movement. P10

Thousands of farmers and members of various organisations marched from Town Hall to Mysuru Bank Circle. The police had beefed up security across Bengaluru and deployed additional forces at bus stations and railway stations.

Kodihalli Chandrashekhara, president, Karnataka Rajya Raitha Sangha and Hasiru Sene, said people of Karnataka supported the bandh. "Although the government ran its buses and offices as usual and the police detained many protesters, the people of the state supported our cause by staying home. In Bengaluru, thousands of people took part in the rally. The bandh was successful in the state," he added.

Students of Mysore University boycotted classes and formed a human chain to support the agitation.

In Mysuru, Mandya, and Chamarajanagar districts, hundreds of farmers blocked entry gates of KSRTC and private bus stations till 9 am and forced traders to pull down shutters. Police and protesters entered into a wordy duel when agitators threatened shop owners.

In Kalaburagi, activists blocked the entrance of Central Bus Stand in the morning, following which the Kalyana Karnataka Region Transport Corporation withdrew buses up to 2 pm. P4

Centre gets it for changing NEET PG exam pattern

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

@ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Monday slammed the Centre for making last-minute changes to the exam pattern of Postgraduate National Eligibility-cum-Entrance Test-Super Specialty (NEET-SS), 2021.

"The young doctors cannot be at the mercy of insensitive bureaucrats and cannot be treated like a football," a bench of justices D Y Chandrachud and B V Nagarathna said.

The court had last week issued notices to the Central government and the National Medical Council (NMC) on a plea by postgraduate doctors over last-minute changes to the exam pattern.

NEET-SS is scheduled to be held on November 13 and 14, the dates for which were notified on July 23. However, the testing agency announced a syllabus change on August 31 through a bulletin.

"Why after the exam notification? Why cannot it be made from next year. Students prepare for months for such exams. We will hear you, but we are dissatisfied with the authorities. Just because you have power you are wielding it like this. Please speak to the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare to look into this," said Justice Chandrachud.

Justice Nagarathna said the new syllabus looked more like a final exam than an entrance test. "If you change it (pattern) suddenly, what will happen? This does not look like an entrance, but a final exam," Justice Nagarathna said.

At this, senior advocate Maninder Singh and the National Board of Examination's (NBE) counsel submitted the changes were well-considered and enforced after necessary approvals.

Be open to strictures, SC warns Centre

Justice Chandrachud observed the Centre should be open to strictures of SC if the latter does not agree with the authorities. The bench slated the hearing for next Monday

RSS WEEKLY SLAMS AMAZON, LIKENS IT TO A COLONISER

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

@ New Delhi

AFTER its blistering attack on infotech major Infosys recently, Hindi magazine Panchajanya, which is linked to the RSS, lit into e-commerce retail behemoth Amazon, likening it to British colonisers and calling it 'East India Company 2.0', in its upcoming edition.

Amazon quickly rebutted the allegations, explaining how it has offered its platform to a large number of small grocery stores and exporters to sell their goods and services.

The latest Panchajanya cover story has its genesis in a recent whistleblower complaint against Amazon allegedly bribing Indian government officials, funneling the dirty money under the head of legal fees. The report examines "how Amazon resorts to bribery, and why it poses a risk to the entrepreneurship of the country, besides prestige, culture and economic freedom of India," its editor Hitesh Shankar said.

It claimed at least 40,000 small shops in India have shut down because of Amazon's expanding footprint. The article is in line with concerns within RSS affiliates of the growing influences of e-commerce platforms in consumer behaviour at the cost of neighbourhood outlets.

Amazon claimed it was empowering kirana stores and connecting individual artisans and exporters with the global market. It said over three lakh sellers boarded its platform during the pandemic, which included 75,000 neighbourhood shops.

Congress spokesperson Pawan Khera said, "The kind of allegations on Amazon that have come to light are very serious and cannot be ignored."

PUSH FOR STARTUPS

Task force soon to frame R&D policy for K'taka

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

@ Hubballi

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Monday announced the constitution of a task force to frame new research and development policy for the State. KLE Technological University Vice-Chancellor Prof Ashok Shettar will head the task force. Bommai has also planned to set up coordinating centres at Hubballi and Kalaburagi to ensure the benefits of the startup policy are taken to places out of Bengaluru.

Inaugurating a Tech Park at the KLE Technological University campus to mark flagging off of the platinum jubilee of BVBCET, Bommai said the State is known for taking initiatives to encourage R&D. Because of this, around 180 public and private enterprises, including multi-national ones, have been operating in and around Bengaluru.

The R&D sector is the core of industrial growth in the State, the CM said, adding that to unleash the potential further, he has planned to frame a new policy. It will help push innovations in every sector, particularly agriculture and food, in coordination with institutions and industries, he said. P7

What nature paints blue, tourists dab with dirt

Swathes of neelakurinji flowers blanket the landscape at Kote Betta in Kodagu district (above); The hill littered with plastic bottles, polythene bags and food wrappers (right) | EXPRESS

PRAJNA GR @ Madikeri

WHAT is it with us! As people we don't seem to respect nature, culture, heritage and all things important to us.

The hilly and scenic Kodagu recently had the rare neelakurinji blooming at Kote Betta in Garvale village, a lesser-known pilgrimage spot in the district. No sooner than the news of flowering that occurs once in 12 years got out, the flood of tourists started. Within days, it was not the flowers that could be seen at the spot, but the litter of plastic covers and bottles, cigarette butts, beer cans and empty whiskey bottles.

The tourists did not even bother to remember that it was also a place of piety where people from seven villages in the area come to perform weekly pujas at the Eshwara temple on the hillock. Villagers said that some tourists have also consumed liquor on the premises of the temple, hurting their sentiments.

To put an end to the menace, the local temple committee erected a gate on the road leading to Kote Betta recently. They are collecting entry fees from tourists, while also cautioning them against the consumption of alcohol, smoking and littering. ₹100 is being charged for a four-wheeler and ₹50 for a two-wheeler. But this has given way to local politics, with some villagers arguing that the authority to collect the entry fee lies with the panchayat and not the temple committee.

Another set of villagers oppose the premises being developed as a tourist spot.

On Monday, local MLA Appachu Ranjan, along with police and forest officials, held a meeting with the villagers, temple committee and panchayat members.

Many govt departments stretched thin with no fresh recruitments

Some facing as much as 50% staff crunch; as economy rebounds, state likely to fill vacant posts

ASHWINI M SRIPAD
@ Bengaluru

WITH the government putting the brakes on recruitment in the wake of the pandemic, several departments, including those which directly deal with the people, are functioning with half the sanctioned strength. As a result, there have been delays in implementing the various government schemes. However, with the economic situation slowly improving now, the government is likely to restart the recruitment process.

Ever since Covid-19 hit, most of the departments, except Health and a few other departments which provide essential services, stopped the recruitment process and managed with outsourced employees.

Of the five lakh employees who work in the 72 departments of the State Government — agriculture, home, urban development, health, tourism, education, food and civil supplies, power, water resources, excise, medical education, etc — 1.5 lakh are contractual staffers.

"As of today, there are 2.4

MANPOWER WOES

Department	Sanctioned posts	Vacant
► Revenue	30,003	8,882
► Agriculture	8,362	4,255
► Animal Husbandry	18,563	8,931
► Sports & youth service	257	151

lakh vacant posts in Karnataka out of the 7.7 lakh sanctioned posts," Karnataka State Government Employees' Association president C S Shadakshari told The New Indian Express.

Departments like Agriculture, Revenue, Animal Husbandry and a few others are facing an acute shortage of staff, hampering day-to-day work. Sources in the Agriculture Department said more than 50 per cent of posts are vacant.

"Of the 2,099 posts of assistant agriculture officer, only 400 are filled. Each officer handles two to three gram panchayats. They are the grassroots level officers who have to ensure that government schemes reach the beneficiaries (farmers). But, with staff shortage, farmers are not able to get the benefit on time," the sources said.

Similarly, in the Revenue Department there is a shortage of land surveyors. During the just-concluded legislature session, Revenue Minister R Ashoka had stated that of the 4,020 sanctioned posts of land surveyors, 604 are vacant. He admitted that because of this, farmers' land survey work has been delayed. He, however, said they are taking steps to recruit surveyors soon. In his reply, the minister had said that recruitment in 2020-2021 was frozen due to the financial crisis caused by Covid-19. There are vacancies in other cadres too, which will be filled in a phased manner, he said.

The Public Works Department is top-heavy with an excess of staff in the higher cadres — Assistant Executive Engineer to Superintending Engineer. On the other hand, there is a shortage of Junior and Assistant Engineers, which are being filled through the KPSC.

According to sources, the PWD has 3,130 sanctioned posts of engineers starting from Junior Engineer to Superintending Engineer. Earlier, the PWD and Irrigation departments were clubbed, and after bifurcation, a large number of engineers opted to stay with the Public Works Department.

Shadakshari pointed out that due to the staff shortage, employees are forced to take up additional work. Even revenue-generating departments like the sub-registrar's offices, RTOs and others have less staff. This also means generation of revenue is slowed down. "Our staff are working under pressure. We were told that due to the pandemic, the government froze recruitments. But it is high time recruitments are made, or else we will be left with no option but to take to the streets," he warned.

Congress a party of 'slavery', says Bommai

HUBBALLI: Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Monday hit out at Congress leader Siddaramaiah for his statement equating the Bharatiya Janata Party to the Taliban. "He (Siddaramaiah) is frustrated. It is out of desperation that has spoken absurdly. His remark is not befitting the position he has held in the past," Bommai told the media here. Slamming the Congress over its stand on the National Education Policy (NEP), Bommai called it a party of slavery.

"Congress is a party of gulamgiri... Ours is a party of patriotism. They see patriotism differently," he added. Elaborating further, Bommai said because of the Macaulay's education policy followed by the Congress during their regime, India was deprived of opportunities to compete at the global level. "Now, the Narendra Modi government at the Centre has brought about a revolution in the field of education to help our children, especially those from rural areas, to take on competition. The Congress is busy finding faults in that too," Bommai rued.

Bommai said training at the new centre will help police personnel enhance their skill and work more efficiently. "It is learnt that many mid-level officers lack proper training. If they get the required training, it will help them upgrade. Their subordinates also follow their style of work, which will bring changes in the administration," Bommai said.

On increasing the number of police stations in the Hubballi-Dharwad Commissionerate, Bommai said that if the demand meets the National Police Commission recommendations such as crime rate, area, and population, new police stations will be set up. He also advised Hubballi-Dharwad Police Commissioner Labhu Ram to visit

@ Hubballi

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Monday said that a training centre on the lines of the National Defence Academy in Khadakwasla near Pune will be set up in Karnataka to train personnel of the state police department from the rank of Deputy Superintendent of Police to Inspector General.

Speaking to the media here after laying the foundation stone for Kasabapet and South Traffic police stations, District Armed Reserve building in Dharwad, 36 police quarters and six dog kennels at a cost of Rs 20.74 crore, Bommai said training at the new centre will help police personnel enhance their skill and work more efficiently. "It is learnt that many mid-level officers lack proper training. If they get the required training, it will help them upgrade. Their subordinates also follow their style of work, which will bring changes in the administration," Bommai said.

On increasing the number of police stations in the Hubballi-Dharwad Commissionerate, Bommai said that if the demand meets the National Police Commission recommendations such as crime rate, area, and population, new police stations will be set up. He also advised Hubballi-Dharwad Police Commissioner Labhu Ram to visit police stations and check files and investigation reports to improve their way of functioning. "A few miscreants are trying to defame the name of Hubballi-Dharwad. Therefore, the police commissioner should concentrate on the 5 or 6 police stations where crime rate is high," Bommai added.

6 more FSLs

To reduce the burden on the Forensic Science Laboratory (FSL) in Bengaluru, six more cities in the state, including Mysuru, Kalaburagi and Hubballi, will get the facility to expedite the process of investigations, said Bommai. To strengthen the police system, the government had recently launched mobile FSLs which was praised by Union home Minister Amit Shah, he added.

Bommai said the government aims to build 100 new police stations annually and construct 10,000 police quarters in the next five years.

Home Minister Araga Jnanendra said that in order to check the menace of online gambling, the legislature recently passed a Bill to amend the Karnataka Police Act-1963. "The law will come into effect soon. Such offences will become a cognizable offence. This will help to curb all kinds of gambling and the police need not take permission from judges before raiding on gambling dens," he added.

DKS in Delhi to discuss state Cong unit revamp

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

WITH the next Assembly election just about 18 months away, the state Congress is working hard to get its team battle-ready with new office-bearers. The Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC) has not been fully revamped for about 12 years now.

State Congress president D K Shivakumar, who is in New Delhi, told The New Indian Express on phone, "I have come to discuss the list of new office-bearers with the central leadership."

This means there will be major changes in the KPCC and many district and block units too may see overhaul. Shivakumar has for long been pushing for a new set of office-bearers. He has also held several rounds of discussions with his team consisting of two working presidents and others.

The KPCC was last recast about 12 years ago when Dr G Parameshwara was Pradesh Congress Committee president. He held the post for about eight years and thereafter, Dinesh Gundu Rao served for about three years. Shivakumar has been president for about 18 months now. Many of the Congress office-bearers have remained the same since then.

A few months ago, Leader of Opposition in the Assembly and Congress Legislative Party leader Siddaramaiah too had prepared a list and submitted it to the party central leadership.

All India Congress Committee General Secretary in charge of Karnataka, Randeep Singh Surjewala, and General Secretary (Org) K C Venugopal had spoken to both Shivakumar and Siddaramaiah on this issue.

On the issue of giving Congress tickets to disgruntled leaders from other parties who are planning to switch sides, Shivakumar said it has already been discussed with the central leadership about accommodating them so that no one in the party complains later if they are denied a ticket. Sources said some legislators from other parties have already made demands for tickets.

'New farm laws favour corporate companies'

In Belagavi, the APMC vegetable market remained closed. Farmer leader KT Gangadhar said in the coming days, both farmers and the common man will become labourers of the corporate sector. "Farmers who have been conserving the land of their ancestors will lose it. The days of crying for food are not far away," he told the agitators. Condemning the new laws, farmer leader HR Basavarajappa said the government amended the farm laws to favour corporate companies.

On the Pune-Bengaluru NH, protesters tried to stop vehicles at Hire Bagewadi. But the police thwarted their attempts and took them into custody. The protesters were released later.

Women Congress members staged a 'rasta roko' on the national highway in Hubballi. By noon, farmers from Khanapur and Belagavi taluqs arrived on tractors at Rani Channamma Circle and blocked roads for some time. Pro-farmer organisations took out protest rallies in Bidar, Vijayapura and Bagalkot. The protesters submitted memorandums to the President of India through the DC's office, urging the government to roll back monetising of government assets, farm laws and amendments to labour laws. In Chikmagalur, leaders and activists of political parties like Congress, JDS, BSP, CPI, CPM and forums like DSS and Kannada Sene took part in the protest.

Nanjangud tahsildar transferred

MYSURU: Under fire from various quarters over the demolition of the Sri Adishakti Mahadevamma temple at Huchhagani village in Nanjangud taluk, the State Government on Monday transferred Nanjangud tahsildar Mohana Kumari. The demolition of the temple on September 8 had led to an uproar with pro-Hindu organisations, including the Hindu Jagaran Vedike, setting a deadline of 10 days for the government to take action against the tahsildar and Deputy Commissioner Dr Bagadi Gautham. Though several Veerashaiva organisations had stood in support of Mohana Kumari, saying that she had only followed the directives of the district administration and chief secretary, the government issued an order transferring her citing public and administrative purposes. Mohana Kumari handed over charge to Grade-2 Tahsildar Bhayralah on Monday. ENS

JDS SOUNDS 2023 POLL BUGLE WITH 'MISSION 123+'

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI
@ Bengaluru

THE JDS may well be taking a leaf out of the BJP's book to win not less than 123 seats in the 2023 Karnataka Assembly elections. The BJP had classified each of West Bengal's 294 constituencies ahead of the Assembly polls, held earlier this year, into three categories — A (easy win), B (a contest) and C (a tough contest), depending on the nature of the fight. The JDS now has gone a step ahead by adding another category, A+, where it not only has a strong base, but also a strong candidate.

The party leadership held deliberations in this regard on the first day of the four-day Janata Parva 1.0 — a workshop for legislators and ticket hopefuls at former CM HD Kumaraswamy's farmhouse at Kethigahalli near Bidadi, on Monday. The workshop is part of the party's 'Mission 123+' campaign. This comes at a time when the JDS is facing a crisis with three of its legislators — Chamundeshwari MLA GT Devegowda, Gubbi MLA S R Srinivas and Kolar MLA K Srinivas Gowda — rebelling. As expected, the trio did not attend the workshop.

Speaking after the inauguration of the workshop, Kumaraswamy said, "Prime Minister Narendra Modi faced the 2014 Lok Sabha elections with the slogan 'Mission 272+'. We are going with 'Mission 123+' for the 2023 Assembly elections." Kumaraswamy said the JDS will not focus on all the 224 seats, but on 'winnable' constituencies. He further said the party has decided to field newbies in 20-25 seats.

JDS insiders told TNIE that a search is on for alternative candidates for Gubbi, Kolar, and Chamundeshwari Assembly segments among other seats where the incumbent party MLAs are reportedly planning to quit. "HD Kumaraswamy already has some names in his mind," informed a source. "The Congress is in touch with some of our leaders, including those who came second in several constituencies in the 2018 elections. But I am not worried about such people... I did not invite them to the workshop," Kumaraswamy said.

"No one, including Congress leader Siddaramaiah, who often criticises our party, can finish off JDS in Karnataka. There is a lot of propaganda by our critics that we are soft on the BJP and will ally with them. But we will teach our critics a lesson in the 2023 polls," former PM and JDS supreme HD Deve Gowda said.

The party also has plans to attract defeated candidates such as Anandaiah in Mayakonda, who garnered considerable votes as an Independent in the 2018 Assembly polls.

Not joining Cong or BJP, says JDS MLA

HASSAN: Arasikere MLA KM Shivalinge Gowda said he will not quit the Janata Dal Secular, and that some BJP and Congress leaders are making baseless statements to tarnish his image. He said he has a good rapport with senior leaders in the Congress and BJP, which had brought in grants for the constituency. Local BJP leaders had said that Shivalinge Gowda is likely to join the BJP or Congress before the assembly elections.

International expo to boost tourism sector hit by Covid-19 pandemic

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

TO boost the tourism sector hit by Covid-19, the Tourism Department is taking several measures, including organising Karnataka International Tourism Expo (KITE) in Bengaluru from February 23 to 25, 2022, Tourism Minister Anand Singh said on Monday.

The pandemic has devastated the sector that suffered a loss of Rs 25,000 crore and it will take two years to completely recover, he said while speaking at the World Tourism Day celebrations.

"Rs 500 crore is kept for providing incentives, subsidies and rebates under the Karnataka Tourism Policy 2020-26. By 2026, we expect around Rs 5,000 crore investment in the sector, employment to 10 lakh people and over 1,700 tourism projects will benefit from the policy,"

he said and added that the tourism sector's contribution to the state GDP will increase to 20%.

The department had earlier announced incentives, including a 50% rebate in property tax for hotels, resorts, restaurants and amusement parks, for 2020-21, waived-off electricity bills from April to June this year. The electricity charges and property tax for star hotels will be levied under the industrial category and not commercial. They have to be registered with the department to avail the incentives. Singh, who released the guidelines for implementing the State Tourism Policy, said they have increased subsidy from 15% to 25%.

An additional 5% subsidy will be given to registered establishments in Kalyan Karnataka region.

The department is also planning to hold Global Tourism Investors meet in Bengaluru, Singh said added that they will start a single-window system to address film industry concerns over getting permission for shooting.

RELIEF FOR BJP LEADER

No two complaints on same incident: HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

ONCE a complaint is registered on a particular premise of an incident, the complainant cannot register another one related to the same incident, the Karnataka High Court has ruled. Allowing a petition questioning the proceedings initiated against B V Byre Gowda, a BJP leader from KR Layout in Hosakote Town, Bengaluru Rural District, based on a second complaint of assault, Justice M Nagaprasanna quashed it.

The second complaint was related to alleged assault on officials by BJP workers for removing buntings 'unauthorisedly' put up to welcome BJP leader Amit Shah when Karnataka Legislative Assembly elections were notified in 2018. "If both the FIRs, registered under two different crime numbers, are read in juxtaposition, what unmistakably emerges is that both are by the same complainant, which pertain to the same incident, same time and date," the court said while quashing the proceedings before a trial court in Hosakote.

The then Municipal Commissioner and head of a flying squad, Nisar Ahmed, had on April 18, 2018 lodged a complaint with the Hosakote police alleging that the BJP had unauthorisedly put up a lot of buntings to mark the arrival of Amit Shah. When they went to the spot to remove the buntings, BJP leader Byre Gowda, along with others, allegedly obstructed and abused them in foul language and one Ashok assaulted the complainant. The same day, another individual lodged a complaint for the offences punishable under Section 504, 332 and 353 of the IPC.

20 districts report high fatality rate

10 districts have CFR below 1pc; vax status in dists with high CFR need to be checked

RANJANI MADHAVAN @ Bengaluru

EVER since the pandemic began, it has been the aim of the state government to bring the Covid-19 Case Fatality Rate (CFR) below 1 per cent. However, state Covid-19 War Room data shows that 20 of 30 districts still have CFR higher than 1 per cent. Haveri, Dharwad, Ballari, Bidar and Shivamogga have the highest CFR. The remaining 10 districts have CFR below 1, the lowest being Chitradurga, Udupi, Yadgir, Chikkamagaluru and Raichur.

Dr K S Satish, noted pulmonologist and member of the State Covid-19 Death Audit Committee, said that late presentation of patients is still a problem outside Bengaluru. Lack of facilities in some districts may be a problem too, he added.

"We also need to check vaccination status in districts

A health worker in PPE suit collect swab samples from a passenger arriving at Kempegowda bus station in Bengaluru on Monday | SHIRAM BN with high CFR, as vaccines prevent severe Covid-19 disease and death, even if the person gets infected. In the US, states with low vaccination rates have a higher number of deaths," Dr Satish said. It is also a case of statistical jugglery, said Dr CN Manjunath, director of Sri Jayadeva Institute of Cardiovascular Sciences and Research, and member of the Covid-19 Technical Advisory Committee.

"When the total number of positive cases comes down, fewer deaths get reflected in a higher percentage. This is despite the absolute number of fatalities being low," he informed. CFR is a lag indicator. If we observe the positivity rate going down, two to four weeks after, the fatality rate also goes down," said Dr Pradeep Banandur, head of epidemiology department at the NIMHANS.

"Case Fatality Rate is slow to come down but once the fresh caseload decreases, deaths will too. Vaccination is a magic wand that is proven to bring down Covid-19 fatalities. We must focus on this apart from patients getting tested and treated early," Dr Banandur explained. Health and Medical Education Minister Dr K Sudhakar was unreachable for comment.

Worrying sign? Doctors see sudden increase in flu cases

IFFATH FATHIMA @Bengaluru

AN uptick in influenza cases is stirring concern among doctors, who say that compared to last year, the number of cases is high. Hospitals had not reported influenza cases during the first wave of the pandemic.

Influenza is a viral infection that attacks the respiratory system of the person - the nose, throat and lungs. Some hospitals have seen a 20 per cent increase in influenza cases.

Dr Vivek Anand Padegal, Director - Pulmonology, Fortis Hospitals, Bannerghatta Road, pointed out that he had seen only one patient with influenza in hospital last year, but has seen a spike in the past six weeks. "Since the Covid outbreak, this is the first time we are seeing many cases of influenza. Last year, many places across the country did not see influenza cases. The reasons for increase in cases can be attributed to people not being careful about hand sanitisation and masking, which keeps away all viral infections - influenza, asthma or chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, besides corona. Weather change is another possibility."

"Every year, two vaccines are released by the World Health Organisation, one is a Southern hemisphere vaccine given between March and September, and the other is a Northern Hemisphere vaccine, given between September and February. These vaccines have not been released this year, which could have led to the increase."

The number of influenza cases has increased even at Rajiv Gandhi Institute of Chest Diseases. "We have seen 10-15% increase in cases in our hospital, and noticed many children getting infected with influenza, which is called para influenza. Another reason is that respiratory syncytial virus cases are increasing and contagious virus is causing infection of the respiratory tract. Most Covid patients show signs of influenza like illness, however, many are testing negative but there is always a risk. So we are advising patients not to go out frequently during this weather," said Dr C Nagaraj, RGICD Director. Dr Ranjit Mohan, Consultant - Internal Medicine, Infectious Diseases, Manipal Hospitals, pointed out that relaxation of travel restrictions, reopening of educational institutions and social gatherings are factors contributing to the increase. "Patients with mild infection are advised rest and given adequate hydration, pyretics and medication for upper respiratory symptoms. Antiviral agents such as Oseltamivir and Zanamivir are also used. Severe cases with pneumonia, while respiratory failure and sepsis may require mechanical ventilation and critical care," he said. Dr Srivatsa Lokeshwaran, Consultant - Interventional Pulmonology, & Transplant Physician at Aster CMI Hospital, pointed out that the trend has been noticed for one-and-a-half months "Children below 5 years and those above 65 years are more prone to the infection."

COVID BYTES

Active cases fall below 13,000-mark in K'taka

BENGALURU: Registering a 3.09% decrease, active Covid-19 cases in Karnataka dropped below the 13,000-mark, on Monday. From 13,213 on Sunday, the active caseload hit 12,804 on Monday. Bengaluru's active caseload too dropped from 7,483 to 7,394. The state on Monday recorded 504 fresh Covid-19 cases, which took the total number of cases since the beginning of the pandemic to 29,73,899. There were 20 deaths which took the total death toll to 37,746. ENS

FALSE PROMISE Cop held for raping minor girl

ENS @ Mangaluru A police constable attached to the Kadaba station in Dakshina Kannada district has been taken into police custody after a man alleged that he had sexually assaulted his minor daughter, on the false promise of marriage. The father alleged that the policeman, Shivaraj, raped his daughter when she was alone at home and also impregnated her. "My daughter was a rape survivor two years ago, and the case was closed six months back. In connection with this case, the accused Shivaraj used to visit our house," he mentioned in his complaint.

BMTC bus runs over 2 on e-way

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru TWO, including a woman, were killed after a BMTC bus ran over them in Electronics City traffic police limits on Sunday. The deceased have been identified as Prabhakar, a lathe operator, and Sahana, a garment factory worker. Both hailed from Davanagere and were around 25 years old. Prabhakar lived in Electronics City, while Sahana was a resident of Doddaballapura. The police said Sahana had come to meet Prabhakar on Sunday and they were going on the connecting flyover from Phase-2 to Phase-1 of Electronics City. A BMTC bus moving ahead changed lanes without any indication and its middle section brushed against the bike. Both Prabhakar and Sahana fell off the bike and came under the rear wheels of the bus. "Both died instantly as the bus ran over their heads. The bus driver was arrested, while the vehicles involved in the accident have been confiscated," the police added. It may be recalled that a man and woman who had stopped at a lay-by on the same stretch had died after they were hit by a car and they fell from the flyover recently.

CYCLONE GULAB

HEAVY SHOWERS BATTER AP, TS, ODISHA

Storm uproots several hundred trees, electric poles and affects normal life in the three states

Exams postponed in TS, AP

Numerous exams scheduled on September 28 and 29 were postponed in Telangana and Andhra Pradesh. All exams of Dr BR Ambedkar Open University and Osmania University have been postponed.

Deep depression

The deep depression over south Odisha and adjoining south Chhattisgarh moved west-northwards and weakened into a depression and lay centered over north Telangana and adjoining south Chhattisgarh and Vidarbha, the IMD said.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Visakhapatnam, Hyderabad, Jeypore

CYCLONE Gulab, which barreled into the east coast between Kalingapatnam in Andhra Pradesh and Gopalpur in Odisha on Sunday night, triggered widespread and heavy rainfall in the state as well as in Telangana and southern Odisha throughout Monday, uprooting several hundred trees, electric poles, and affecting normal life in the three States before weakening into a deep depression.

The strong winds and heavy rains that accompanied the cyclone battered three north coastal districts of Andhra Pradesh, besides Godavari and Krishna districts on Monday. Two persons were killed in cyclone-related incidents in Vizianagaram and Visakhapatnam districts, even as thousands of people were sheltered in temporary relief camps.

Visakhapatnam and Srikakulam bore the cyclone fury, which inundated several low-lying areas and uprooted several trees and snapping power supply lines. National Disaster Response personnel, along with their Andhra counterparts, and State government officials, swung into action and the situation improved as the rains weakened by evening.

In Telangana, heavy rain kept pounding relentlessly throughout the day late into the night on Monday, crippling normal life and bringing the rickety road and drain infrastructure to its knees.

In Hyderabad, there was no let-up from the driving rain as it beat down on the state in waves, not even giving respite for a few hours. The evening home-bound traffic was held up almost everywhere in the city unable to move forward as waters surged onto the roads from overflowing drains.

At some places, the people had to risk their lives finding ground under waist-deep water like in Bahadurpura in Old City where the youth go into buses and some even on to of them to cruise the swirling and treacherous water currents. Similar was the fate of the residents of Krishnanagar as they had waded through the tricky waters. On Jubilee Hills- Hitec City road, the vehicular traffic got stuck for more than two to three km.

As the storm made its way through southern Odisha districts, the region bore the brunt of heavy rains that particularly affected Koraput and Malkangiri districts.

Though no major damage to property or infrastructure has been reported from any district, road communication was badly hit in many parts.

The NH- 26 suffered damage due to landslide at Sunki Ghat in Koraput district, which left hundreds of vehicles stranded on two sides for hours. ODRF teams were deployed to clear the road.

SC orders SEC to get local polls done by Jan

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi/Chennai

THE Supreme Court on Monday directed the State Election Commission (SEC) to complete the polls to urban local bodies within four months i.e. by January 2022. This means, even before the dust settles on the rural local body elections in nine districts, the State will witness another political bout.

Mr Rohatgi, even though the reasons are very silly, we want to give some time

NV Ramana, Chief Justice of India

The urban local bodies contain the prestigious mayor posts for city corporations, including Chennai, which the ruling DMK can't afford to lose. The last time urban local body elections were held in the State was in 2011, and the term of the office bearers ended in 2016. When senior advocate Mukul Rohatgi, appearing for the SEC, sought seven months to complete the urban local body elections, Chief Justice of India NV Ramana said, "Mr Rohatgi, even though the reasons are very silly, we want to give some time."

A bench comprising the CJI Ramana and Justices Surya Kant and Hima Kohli issued the direction on a plea filed by the SEC seeking more time to conduct the urban local body polls. Rohatgi said more time is needed due to the creation of six new corporations and 28 municipalities, and sought till the end of April 2022. At this, the bench said, "Four months. Final."

Having a doctoral degree from the Indian Institute of Science, his focus has been the industry-institution connect. He has helped set up incubation centres at the university and around 82 start-ups are working from here.

Bommai, an alumnus of BVBCET, said the State is leading the country in setting up of start-ups, but a majority of them are in Bengaluru. The government is thinking of extending the benefits of the Startup policy to all parts of the State. To ensure region-wise growth, he has planned to open coordinating centres at Hubballi and Kalaburgi. Steps will be taken after discussions with concerned ministers and officials soon, he said.

Large and Medium Scale Industries Minister Murugesh Nirani, also an alumnus of BVBCET, advised students to become entrepreneurs as both the State and Central governments have been extending numerous benefits.

KCR's meetings with Shah shrouded in mystery

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Hyderabad

CHIEF Minister K Chandrabablu Naidu had a busy time meeting Home Minister Amit Shah thrice across two of his four-day visit to New Delhi.

Though he was originally scheduled to be in Delhi for three days, Friday to Sunday, Rao extended his trip by one more day and stayed put in the nation's capital on Monday as well.

Interestingly, Rao, who attended a meeting of Chief Ministers of 10 States on curbing Left-wing extremism, which was called by the Union Home Ministry on Sunday afternoon, met Shah once again the same evening.

The meeting lasted for more than one and a half hours, making one wonder what the topic of discussion was.

The Chief Minister sprang surprise yet again on Monday by calling on the Union Home Minister for a third time.

There is no official word on what transpired between Rao and Shah during these meetings. The Chief Minister's Office did not even release the contents of Rao's address at the conference on Left-wing extremism or his other two meetings with Shah. The CMO, in normal course, issues press releases, shortly after his official engagements.

It is important to note that when Shah had visited Nirmal on September 17, on the occasion of Telangana Liberation Day, he was not critical of the Chief Minister.

He had merely said that the BJP would come to power in the State in the next Assembly elections.

As no official statement followed Rao's visit to the nation's capital, curiosity levels have peaked among those who watch his movements closely.

CASTE CENSUS IS THE WAY FORWARD FOR EQUITABLE GROWTH

Caste is a reality in India. Remaining in denial by avoiding a caste census will not do any good to society or meaningful policymaking. As a nation, we can hardly choose to ignore the structural deprivations and oppressions it wreaks in our social, political and economic life. No one needs reminders of this, but we get them with depressing frequency. In Koppal district, Karnataka, two incidents came to light quite recently. In one case, the parents of a Dalit child were fined ₹25,000 just because he strayed into a temple—Lingayat priests making a mockery of Basavanna's teachings. Even as this was being probed, another Dalit youth was fined for offering prayers at a temple. In Mainpuri, UP, school officials had to be suspended for making Dalit children wash their plates separately. Caste rape and dishonourable killings for marrying outside caste are quite the norm. So deep are the biases that global experts fear they may percolate into artificial intelligence—because AI algorithms learn from human behaviour. Political parties have only sharpened and exploited these divisions for strategic convenience. Chief ministers are chosen, Cabinet expansions calculated and political alliances struck with an eye on caste—the bigger the social catchment offered via caste identity, the bigger the bargaining power of leaders.

Governance too is frequently coloured by caste. Mandal had liberated politics from elite monopoly. So it is not surprising to see Nitish Kumar asking for a caste census and being supported by his arch rival Lalu Prasad. And who are opposed to the idea? Parties that seek to aggregate caste votes using more 'universal' slogans. India may not be in any danger of becoming an egalitarian democracy of equals in a hurry, but the target of policy must be that. A census gives us rich data that allows us to take stock of where we are as a nation. And caste is a vital part of that.

SANIA BRIGHT SPOT AMID TENNIS RUINS

On Sunday, Sania Mirza, the former World No 1, won her first doubles title of the season. Partnering China's Shuai Zhang, the six-time Major champion claimed the Ostrava Open. In a year marked by disappointment in tennis, the 34-year-old's victory is a timely reminder that Sania still has a few years left in the game. However, her win throws up an uncomfortable question—"who after her?" On the women's side, Ankita Raina has had a decent season. She had her first-ever main draw appearance at a Slam and her graph is trending upwards. However, the list stops there. On the men's side, the cupboard is bare. All the players combined have managed one main draw entry at a Major. And even that came thanks to a wild card given by the Australian Open organisers to Sumit Nagal.

It's fair to say the likes of Prajnesh Gunneswaran, Ramkumar Ramanathan and Nagal—the three leading lights of men's tennis going by rankings—are still searching for form and rhythm in a season that's on its last legs. In men's doubles, a category that has served Indians well for the last several decades, the performance has been so bad there's not even hot air. That Rohan Bopanna, at 41, continues to lead the pack is indicative of how much talent there is. All this was laid front and centre in that disappointing show against Finland in the Davis Cup Group I tie.

Covid-19, injuries and a lack of tournaments have also hit India hard in this regard. It's likely that the country could go without a single ATP Challenger or World Tour event, the top two men's tiers, for the first time since the 1990s. Not an ideal scenario if you are trying to develop the game. This was also touched upon by Bopanna and team captain, Rohit Rajpal, after the Finland defeat. As it is, India's myriad tennis fans are compelled to look to history—the Krishnans, Amritrajs, Leander Paes/Mahesh Bhupathi and Sania—to talk up the country's tennis culture. With no real talent coming through or emerging, that could well be the status quo going forward.

A political party is a function of the collective images of all its leaders. It is equally an amalgam of all the actions and inactions of each of these leaders

POLITICAL LEADERS AND THE SCIENCE OF BRANDING

HARISH BIJOOR

Brand Guru & Founder, Harish Bijoor Consults Inc

Branding has a sweet and nasty habit of making it into every realm. Politics is incidentally one of them. In the wonderland of politics, there are people of every hue of opinion, out to establish their credentials with their potential voters. Every diverse and divergent opinion is relevant, particularly in a vibrant and living democracy like ours.

The science of branding the politician is a rather contemporary part of political science. Today, politicians who aspire to make it big invest a huge amount of time, energy and money to get their branding act right. This is done right at the beginning, just as it is done with equal passion mid-course to make those vital corrections that count.

As you look around in the market of human brands that are represented by leaders of every kind, there is a method to the madness of the politician brand you are confronted with day in and day out.

There are brands that stand tall in their imagery and those that are stunted by the day. Both personas remain brands. One is a brand that evokes awe and pride and the other is one that evokes the comic, if not the bizarre and ridiculous. The beauty, however, is the fact that nothing is permanent in the world of branding. The chemistry of it all is so ever-changing that the ridiculous can become sublime and the brand that is standing tall can get repositioned quickly.

Political science must therefore incorporate into it a solid chapter on brand management. It is a science being used by the politician today with finesse and panache.

Look behind the curtains. The politician is a brand in the fullness of it all. My definition of a brand is simple. It is a thought. The politician is a thought, a powerful one that lives in the minds of millions of people. The complexity is, of course, the fact that the very same brand is a different animal in every mind. How does Lalu Prasad Yadav occupy the high ground of being a people's persona? How does he manage to do it right all the time? Well, high almost. How does he maintain his rustic charm intact in a state that celebrates the rustic and the real? How does he manage to continue to live and thrive in the mindsets of his peoples?

As a part of an exercise to assess the value of such dynamic human politician brands, I have done a brand valuation exercise on a whole host of them. This exercise views the value living and dead brands bring to the political parties in focus. It is done across the country, across sets of human politician brands that have captured the imagination of voters and non-voters alike. The idea is to add the dimension of a physical value to every human brand. The value is a number that translates itself into crores of rupees, which represents metric that can actually measure the contribution these human brands make to their political parties and fortunes to date. In many ways it is giving the devil its justifiable due.

It is heartening to see the kind of value the person in the pole position brings to the Indian National Congress. The name is one of us know as the father of the nation: Mahatma Gandhi. To date, he has contributed valuably to the fortunes of the party and its current image. Through all its ups and downs, Jawaharlal Nehru, Indira and Rajiv Gandhi (both assassinated), and of course every other Gandhi from the party has contributed to its image. Add to it a whole host of names that belonged to the freedom movement and nudged ahead the nation. A political party is thus a function of the collective images of all its leaders. It is equally an amalgam of all the actions, inactions, acts of commission and omission of each of these leaders. Sadly while the work of the common party worker is often forgotten, leaders thrive as brands remembered.

Jumping into every other party that has ruled the country, some of the big human brands that have really done wonders to the fortunes of the parties they represent (either directly or indirectly) have been Sardar Patel, Atal Bihari Vajpayee, Lal Krishna Advani, the current PM Narendra Modi and a large pantheon of others. The rear-end of a list of 214 leaders I have explored include a whole lot of young Turks. Some sons and daughters of leaders and personas, and some completely new entities who have captured the collective imagination of their voters. Many belong to the realm of cinema, some are from sport and strangely very few from those that represent social service.

Brands and branding therefore counts in politics. Many do it wrong. Some shout from the rooftops and imagine being a demagogue is the prime goal of a politician. Others tend to be sober for a sober new tomorrow. And none believe in the dictum that your work must talk.

The future politician, just about taking baby steps in the wonderland of politics, needs to think hard and position himself/herself/themselves right. Contextually, the future is a rebellion against the past in this realm. What is the differentiation you must embrace? How must you not copy anyone else's style? How much integrity must you pour into building your brand? How do you survive in a market where 9/10 of the brands have spoilt the image of the category itself? How does that one sincere brand survive, swim and eventually win?

What happens with new generations of voters? What's the baggage they inherit? And how do they react to names they have read in their history books and never experienced? Must parties invest in the process of reviving leaders and their contribution to nation building? Can long-forgotten history play a role in boosting the brand profile of a party tomorrow? And what's the contemporary buzz? What switches on the young?

The questions to answer are many. The one non-negotiable thing however, with the future in mind, is the position of the politician brand on integrity and the approach to it. My advice to people who come to me on this count is a simple one. If you are a wolf, look like one. Position yourself on the basis of who you are. Don't try to be who you are not. You will fail. A wolf in sheep's clothing works for a while, but then even these have a tendency to fall off eventually.

My research tells me there are 31 ways of positioning a politician brand today for the politics due to emerge tomorrow. Choose it right and with integrity. You don't have to be anyone else. Just be you!

WHY POSHAN 2.0 NEEDS MORE POWER AFTER COVID

DR KIRIT SOLANKI

BJP LS MP, Chairman of the Committee on SC/ST Welfare, & ex-Professor of Surgery

In 2008, when distinguished international economists including many Nobel laureates were asked by the Copenhagen Center to build consensus on the most important development agenda in which policymakers and philanthropists should invest, 'battling malnutrition' emerged as the top priority. It took time for this to sink in our country. For generations, malnutrition and undernutrition remained an all-pervasive but largely invisible issue in India and it didn't receive the attention it deserved.

In fact, it was not until 2016 that a large-scale nationwide survey was conducted to understand the nuances of the nutrition status of the population. Over half of our children under five years were found to be either stunted (too short for their age) or wasted (too thin for their age) or both, reckoned this Comprehensive National Nutrition Survey released in 2019. The results were alarming for what it meant for the future of our children, but they were broadly in sync with other independent estimates on malnutrition's prevalence. Malnutrition adversely affects the physical and mental growth of the child and is the single most important risk for acquiring other diseases. Research also shows malnourished children are less likely to go to school and more likely to drop out. This meant half of our children were silently falling behind, and no development can be truly meaningful without ensuring that our children and mothers are better fed and healthy. Addressing this was at the heart of Poshan Abhiyan launched by Prime Minister Narendra Modi in 2018.

Poshan Abhiyan, which vowed to make India free of malnutrition by 2022, repositioned nutrition as central to development and emphasised its multi-factorial and multi-sectoral nature. First, the movement built in its approach that, on top of direct interventions, nutrition can be improved in many ways, including better sanitation that addresses intestinal diseases and allows people to absorb more nutrients; increasing dietary diversity; vaccinating children against diseases; counselling more women to breastfeed babies for longer; which in turn improves immunity. Second, by involving many ministries and departments outside the nodal ones, along with bringing on board other stakeholders including communities, Poshan Abhiyan helped to build a comprehensive nutrition response, never seen before in this country's history.

Given that the damage malnutrition does in the first 1,000 days of life is irreversible, it became intense focus on nutrition-related intervention to improve maternal and child health in that window since conception. The nutrition mission also measured and monitored indicators real-time during the programme using technology, so that timely course corrections could be made in different contexts. However, what really stood out as a stellar achievement of Poshan Abhiyan was the way the senior political leadership committed itself to eradicating malnutrition and galvanised it into a people's movement—with the celebration of Poshan Maah in September and Poshan Pakhwara in March, along with several other activities.

However, the momentum set by this entire nutrition movement was disturbed once Covid lockdowns led to the shutting of schools, Anganwadi centres, Nutritional Rehabilitation Centres; further, frontline workers had to be engaged in Covid-related work that took precedence over their daily duties, which entailed identifying, referring and monitoring children suffering from severe acute malnutrition and moderate acute malnutrition among other nutrition-strengthening activities. States tried to cope to the best of their abilities by replacing hot-cooked meals with dry ration or cash transfers. But understandably, they couldn't match the intensity of Poshan Abhiyan with Covid surveillance taking over as priority.

Moreover, indirect forces triggered by the pandemic such as disruption in food systems, dried-up income sources, job losses and consequent financial hardships also mean that access to nutrient-rich food might have reduced among economically vulnerable people. Though reliable data to support the possibility of a heightened nutrition crisis during the pandemic is not yet available, anecdotal evidence and previous global experiences of the impact of economic shocks and epidemics on nutrition status show that we must double our efforts to ensure that we do not lose the recent gains made in the nutrition space.

Covid-related shocks could lead to an additional 9 million children under the age of five suffering from wasting, of which two-thirds will be in South Asia, predicted research in Nature in August. So it is important to not only renew but multiply our efforts towards Poshan 2.0 with full vigour while practising physical distancing, mask wearing and hand hygiene.

Under Poshan 2.0, several related schemes have been merged to tap the synergies, malnutrition hotspots are being identified and 112 aspiring districts will receive extra attention. Under the current Poshan Maah, the drive to identify children suffering from severe acute malnutrition has been intensified and Anganwadi workers have been asked to refer those having medical complications to health institutions and NRCs. For those facing severe acute malnutrition without medical complications, community management protocols should be strengthened, so that they do not go on to develop medical complications in times of the pandemic. Fresh waves of Covid cannot be ruled out in the near future, and we must adapt our nutrition interventions to the possibility of such repeated shocks.

Rising above political differences, it is important to document and learn from states like Gujarat, Madhya Pradesh and Rajasthan, which have scaled up Community-based Management of Malnutrition practices in recent times, so that best practices can be adopted and incorporated. Other activities, such as making new mothers breastfeed for longer, managing childhood diarrhoea, distributing deworming tablets and iron and folic acid diligently while convincing target groups to take these diligently will go a long way in improving the nutrition status of children and new mothers.

About 68% of the deaths of children under the age of five in India can be attributed to child and maternal malnutrition, said Lancet in 2019. This basically means that tackling malnutrition as a whole, instead of addressing one disease at a time, will keep our children much safer and make their futures brighter. A safe and bright future for our children will translate into a safe and bright future for the country. And that's the message we want every fellow citizen to internalise—Sahi Poshan, Desh Roshan.

Vaccine certificate fraud

It is shocking that vaccination certificates are being misused by impersonators to enter tourist spots and restaurants. To curb this, such locations can ask for a recent negative RT-PCR report and photo ID proof instead if the certificate lacks their photograph.

Chief Justice of India N V Ramana batting for equal representation of women in the judiciary must be lauded. Speaking at a function organised by

Quality education to all

This is with reference to Caste and the implementation of reservation

(Sep 27). The article has rightly focused on the necessity to realise and fulfil the aspirations of the SEBCs, the SCs and STs, and the EWS. While the rich and privileged receive quality education in the best institutions, the poor are deprived of such opportunities. What is also pitiable is that politicians in this state never seem to have any sympathy towards the EWS category. It is high time states provide quality education to all children and fulfil their needs without any reservation.

Rudderless ship

It is becoming increasingly clear that the Congress, currently a rudderless ship in a stormy sea, has no interest in choosing a new party president. Ever since Rahul Gandhi relinquished the post in 2019, Sonia Gandhi has been functioning as interim President. Now, a new power centre has emerged in the form of Priyanka Gandhi Vadra. The Congress is now being run by the siblings, neither of whom have any clue about what is really ailing the party. Meanwhile, the G23 is getting restless.

Pvt hospitals innovate to clear vax stocks

Besides doing away service fee, some even plan to seek nod for giving booster doses to HCWs and senior citizens

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @New Delhi

STRUGGLING with the poor demand of Covid vaccines that comes at a price, many private hospitals across India have come up with a novel way of attracting beneficiaries: letting go of the service fee that the government permits them to charge.

The hospitals, as of now, are allowed to charge ₹150 per shot from the beneficiaries, in addition to the cost of the vaccines. Most private vaccination centres normally charge ₹ 780 for a Covishield dose and ₹1,410 for Covaxin.

As per the information shared by the Union health ministry recently, only about 6 % of the total vaccinations in the country starting May — when the vaccination was opened for all adults — were carried out in the private sector.

This, when the government has said that a maximum of 25 % for the vaccines being manufactured in India can be available in private hospitals and offered to beneficiaries at pre-defined rates.

The vaccines that are landing up in these facilities, however, are finding few takers.

ever, are finding few takers.

Girdhar Gyani, director general of the Association of Healthcare Providers of India told this newspaper that many hospitals such as those under Yashoda group in Hyderabad, Kerala Institute of Medical Sciences and Narayana Health have decided not to charge administrative fee from beneficiaries.

"It is a fact that most private hospitals are now struggling to find takers as vaccines are easily available for free in government hospitals and, therefore, many of these centres are coming up with innovative ways to clear their stock," he added.

Starting June 21, when the Centre took over the job of providing all 75 % of the remaining vaccines to states, the supplies in government hospitals have dramatically improved across the country.

The situation has, in fact, gotten worse for the private hospitals since the end of August when the supplies by the vaccine manufacturers substantially improved.

It is also evident from the fact that the participation of private hospitals on days when India administered over 1 crore doses in a day, including September 17 when 2.5 crore plus shots were given, has remained negligible.

Modi launches National Digital Health Mission

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Monday launched the National Digital Health Mission under which every Indian citizen is eligible to generate a health ID having medical history and records in a longitudinal manner.

"Today is a very important day," the Prime Minister said while launching the drive. "The drive to strengthen the health facilities of the country, in the last seven years, is entering a new phase. This is not an ordinary phase. This is an extraordinary phase."

The Ayushman Bharat Digital Mission will create a seamless online platform that will enable interoperability within the digital health ecosystem, the PM said. "Digital infrastructure is taking everything from ration to prashasan (administration) to the common people in a fast and transparent manner."

When our health infrastructure is integrated and strengthened, the PM said, it also improves the tourism sector.

The mission was announced by Modi on August 15 last year and has been operational in six Union Territories since then on a pilot basis.

Among other things, the plan is mainly aimed at providing easy access to electronic health records to citizens, generating health record data and also ensuring privacy of personal health data along with consent-based access to electronic health records.

According to officials, health

IDs can be created by providing basic information that includes full name, year of birth, gender, and either a mobile or an Aadhaar number.

As per the National Digital Health Mission policy document, the objective of the mission is "to create a system of digital personal and medical health records which is easily accessible to individuals and health service providers and is purely voluntary in nature, based on the consent of individuals".

The government has said that this system can be used to create personal health records for each individual wherein records generated by various health information providers like doctors, healthcare facilities and laboratories can be collated and viewed by that individual and by healthcare providers with the consent of the individual only.

Ex-Goa CM Faleiro quits Congress: party unwilling to stop its collapse

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mumbai

FORMER Goa chief minister Luizinho Faleiro resigned from the Congress party on Monday and is likely to join the Mamata Banerjee-led All India Trinamool Congress (TMC).

Luizinho Faleiro blamed the Congress leaders for the sorry state of the party, saying the number of Congress MLAs from 18 has dropped to five in the 40-member Goa Assembly.

"I see absolutely no future, no hope or even will to prevent the collapse of the party and change for better," he wrote in his letter to Congress president Sonia Gandhi.

In his parting statement, he said, the people's mandate were in favour of Congress in 2017 and they had even ensured the support of three more MLAs increasing the tally to 21 — simple majority to claim and form the government.

"But the Congress in-charge in Goa and other leaders restrained us from going to Governor House to stake the claim and asked to wait still we get total 24 MLAs. And, we missed the bus completely in Goa. Now, from 18 MLAs in 2017, the Congress party is reduced to five MLAs today ahead of the polls. I cannot bear to see more. Therefore, I decided to resign from the party. I suffered in dignified silence in the Congress. However, I will continue to fight for my constituency Navelim, Goa people and their rights," the senior leader said.

Faleiro, 71, had served as chief minister of the coastal state in 1998-99. A Congress veteran, The veteran has also served as AICC general secretary in charge of Northeast states.

After his resignation, Faleiro called Mamata as a "street-fighter". "Goa is going through difficult times and it needs such fighters, which are also in the same wavelength, same party ideology, policies, principles and programs. I am a Congressman and I would like in the larger picture for all the Congress parties to come together and fight the next Parliament elections," he added.

The TMC, with an eye in the 2024 Lok Sabha elections, is expanding its wings in other states as well. In Goa, the TMC is aiming to contest in all 40 seats in the state.

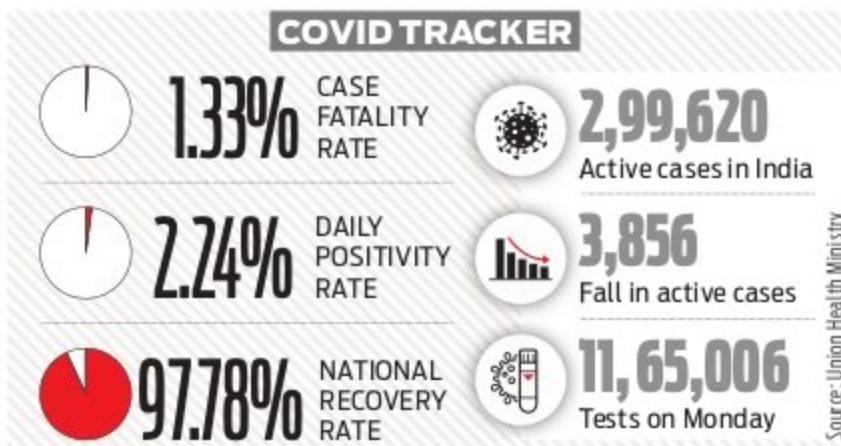

Veteran's exit swells the ranks of deserters

NEW DELHI: Goa leader Luizinho Faleiro's exit has again brought the focus on the Congress's failing to address the in-house issues.

There has been a growing list of Congress leaders jumping the ship, pointing at a weak leadership and looking for an alternative.

Before Faleiro, veteran Kerala Congress leader V M Sudheeran resigned from the membership of the AICC, expressing unhappiness over the party's handling of organisational issues. In UP, former Congress MLA Lalitesh Tripathi recently quit the party.

"Switching over during election time is common but what we are seeing several veterans joining other parties as the top leadership has failed to address their concerns," said a senior leader. "They seemingly feel that parties with a powerful leader can provide alternative to BJP both at the state and national level." ENS

From Feb, DGCA to carry out random test on aviation staff for drug misuse

KUMAR VIKRAM @ New Delhi

TO curb the possible use of psychoactive substances by aviation personnel, the Directorate General of Civil Aviation has asked all scheduled commercial aircraft operators to carry out, random drug testing on flight crew members and air traffic controllers.

DGCA has said that the rules will be effective from January 31, 2022 and it will be applicable to aircraft operators engaged in commercial operations, maintenance & repair organisations, flying training organisations and air navigation service providers. This programme will ensure that at least 10% of the employees of an organization are covered in a year, it said.

While the aviation regulator already examines aviation personnel by breath analysers before they commence for flight duties, a senior official said the move is to ensure the safety of passengers and aircraft.

"The worldwide spread of use of psychoactive substances, their general availability and the ever-increasing number of addicted users is a serious concern to aviation safety. Their use causes behavioural, cognitive and physiological changes. This manifests in dependence, major health related issues and negative effect on performance," said the DGCA in a fresh civil aviation requirement (CAR) issued on Monday.

All the positive cases will be reported to DGCA within 24 hours. If the screening test is non-negative, the employee will be immediately removed from duty till a confirmatory report is received.

In case of first positive confirmatory test, the employee will be referred for de-addiction programme. In case such a person is again caught in the confirmatory test, license will be suspended for three years. License will be cancelled if it is third positive case.

If a person refuses to undergo the test, he will be removed from duties until clearing drug testing profile within a period of 48 hours.

First elevate 13 women lawyers as HC judges: SCBA to CJI Ramana

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

A day after Justice NV Ramana's call to women lawyers to seek reservation in judiciary, Supreme Court Bar Association president Vikas Singh said as the CJI is head of institution and appointments are by collegium, more women numbers can be easily achieved without giving any separate representation for this.

Singh stated that its search committee has shortlisted 13 women lawyers found suitable for appointment as High Court judges. Issuing a press release, the senior advocate stated that the SCBA is sure that steps, if not already taken would be taken immediately. As a first step, he said, the recommended names would be sent for consideration especially the names of women lawyers.

"The CJI being the head of the institution and the appointments being done by the Collegium system, he can easily provide for more and more representation of women lawyers," the statement read.

On Sunday, the CJI had exhorted women lawyers to strongly demand for 50 per cent reservation in the judiciary.

Singh, however, claimed in the statement that the SCBA received complaints from several lady lawyers that they were neither informed nor invited to felicitations. The statement also stated that the CJI would meet the executive committee of the SCBA more frequently.

Earlier, it was informed that the Search Committee formed by the SCBA had shortlisted names of 48 Supreme Court lawyers to be considered for elevation to 17 High Courts across the country.

CLEANLINESS SURVEY TO COVER DISTRICTS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

FOR the first time, the Swachh Survekshan 2022 will have the ranking of districts as well, with officials saying it was done to expand the footprint of the cleanliness survey.

The survey's scope was expanded to cover 100% wards for sampling, as compared to 40% in the previous years.

This year, the cleanliness survey will have more than twice the number of assessors deployed last year. It will introduce improved technological interventions such as digital tracking of documents, geo-tagging of facilities for better efficiency, and QR code-based citizens' feedback for increased people outreach.

Union urban affairs minister Hardeep Singh Puri said that through these multi-faceted initiatives, the SS 2022 framework will propel the Mission towards a circular economy approach through optimum resource recovery.

A revamped version of the Swachhata App, the digital sanitation grievance redressal platform by the ministry introduced in 2016, was launched on the occasion.

'BRO work helped swift deployment of artillery in Ladakh'

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

BETTER road connectivity helped the Army to swiftly deploy its artillery firepower in critical areas after the Ladakh standoff in May 2020, a senior Army officer said.

It was the fast pace of road construction by the Border Roads Organisation which helped the guns reach those points which were significant for firepower, Director General Artillery Lt Gen TK Chawla told the media on the eve of the 195th Gunners Day.

Lt Gen Chawla said that the guns were well deployed but the access to other critical continues and more guns will be deployed. "The BRO is doing a lot of effort to build the network in far-flung areas."

Till now, three regiments of the M-77 ultra light howitzers have been raised and the process for the fourth regiment has begun. For mobility, "a majority of these guns have been deployed along the Line of Actual Control," said Lt Gen Chawla.

"The 105 mm guns are still very much robust with a very high angle of firing which is essential in the mountains," he said, adding these guns will be replaced as and when there are replacements in enough numbers.

Talking about the induction of indigenous artillery systems, the DG informed that while some projects have fruct-tified, some others are facing challenges for which the Army is doing hand-holding.

"A lot of hand-holding was done both for Advanced Towed Artillery Gun System (ATAGS) and Dhanush. I had a detailed discussion last week with the OFB and ARDE (Armament Research and Development Establishment)," he said.

CLEARING THE AIR

'MAKE CASTE CENSUS
DEMAND AT STATE LEVEL'

THE demand for caste census, particularly enumeration of OBCs, is emerging as a political hot potato for the BJP, especially when UP and a few other states are heading for polls next year. Amid mounting pressure from the Opposition and some allies, including the JD-U in Bihar, the BJP, which was vehemently opposed to the caste census till recently, is preparing strategies to counter them. National president of BJP OBC Morcha, Dr K Laxman, speaks to our Patna correspondent Rajesh Kumar Thakur.

How do you see the demand from three BJP's allies in Bihar, including JD-U?
I hope our allies in the NDA would also try to understand all these technical problems sincerely and not become adamant on the issue.

So, you see the intentions of the opposition parties demanding the caste census as doubtful?
The party (read the Congress) which doled out ₹5,000 crore and produced discrepancies in the data in the 2011 exercise on the same issue must answer this very serious question. The same party and some regional parties are at the forefront with an obnoxious agenda to divide the people. However, the OBCs are wiser to see through the divisive agenda of the parties. No attempt will mislead the OBCs in the country when Prime Minister Narendra Modi acts as the real champion of OBCs — right from works to words.

Wouldn't the denial of your government to conduct the census damage BJP's prospects in the UP polls?

Not at all. I toured across the state and interacted with thousands of OBC voters and leaders. None of them is annoyed with the performance of our government; rather they sounded satisfied over the welfare works. Modi government has taken historical decisions for the uplift and empowerment of OBCs in a span of last seven years, like providing constitutional status to NCBC, increasing annual income limit from ₹6 lakh to ₹8 lakh for creamy layer, inducting 27 OBC ministers in the cabinet (first time in the history), 27 per cent reservation for OBCs in medical and other courses. The most important thing the Modi government had done for OBCs is the power given to the states to identify the castes for OBCs by amending the relevant Act in the Parliament. Apart from all this, Modi as MP from Varanasi is the first OBC prime minister in the country, which itself exhibits the genuine concern of BJP towards the OBCs.

As the opposition parties try to make the caste census a national issue, how would the BJP handle this?
In fact, the BJP agenda in the forthcoming UP assembly elections is 'development and welfare of the poor people, whether it is OBC, SC, ST, minorities, women, youth or farmers. Our party does politics for development. Our main poll plank is 'Saab Ke -Sath, Sab-Ke - Vikas', while the Opposition's agenda is 'Kuch Ke sath, Khud ke liye Vikas'.

Send fact-finding writes to PCI

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Srinagar

FORMER J&K chief minister and PDP chief Mehbooba Mufti on Monday wrote to the Press Council of India and Editors Guild of India on the "intimidation, snooping and harassment" of journalists in the Union Territory and urged the two bodies to send a fact-finding team to the region.

"I am sure you are aware that raids were conducted by police at homes of several journalists in Kashmir earlier this month. Electronic gadgets were illegally seized along with ATM cards and passports of their spouses. This comes on the heels of the harrowing experiences that the journalist community in J&K has been subjected to after the abrogation of Article 370," Mehbooba wrote in a letter to the Press Council of India (PCI) and Editors Guild of India.

She informed the PCI that unwarranted harassment of journalists has now become a norm. "Twenty-three journalists have reportedly been put on Exit Control List. Besides, sizeable journalists are either threatened or charged with UAPA or sedition law, simply because their reportage on J&K does not cater to the PR stunts of ruling dispensation. Reporting truth to power is being criminalised with each passing day," she said.

Congress, AIUDF spar over Darrang violence

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Guwahati

TWO persons with suspected links with the Popular Front of India (PFI) were arrested for their alleged involvement in the recent violence during an eviction drive in Darrang district of Assam.

The arrested Chand Mamud and Ashmat Ali are the president of Sonowa village panchayat and former president of Bojona Pathar village panchayat respectively.

"We arrested two persons last (Sunday) night and are verifying their links with the PFI. Our investigation is on," Darrang SP Sushanta Biswa Sarma told this newspaper.

Meanwhile, the state's two principal opposition parties — Congress and minority-based All India United Democratic Front (AIUDF) — are locked in a war of words over the issue.

AIUDF legislator Karim Uddin Barbhuiya slammed the Congress for failing to give one bigha of land to each family despite a promise. "While serving as the CM, Tarun Gogoi had himself stated that each of the families would be allotted one bigha of land. The Congress did not fulfill the promise," Barbhuiya said.

The Congress accused the AIUDF of toeing the ruling BJP's line. "If there were no AIUDF, we would not have this problem," Congress leader and former minister Rakibul Hussain said.

Mamata's desperation aimed at protecting image

PRANAB MONDAL @Kolkata

CHIEF Minister Mamata Banerjee's aggressive campaign for the by-election in Bhowanipore, despite being termed by the BJP as a reflection of her "desperation", is said to be aimed at protecting her popular image.

Sources in the ruling party said the Bengal CM had issued a dictate to party leaders to increase her victory margin. Sovande Chattopadhyay won from here by a margin of 28,719 votes, while in 2016 assembly elections, Mamata had won by 25,301 votes.

"If she gets one vote less than Chattopadhyay's margin, BJP will get a chance to raise questions on the CM's popularity," said a senior TMC leader.

For the last one week, Mamata, has been holding back-to-back rallies in the constituency, aiming to woo the diverse electorate. Observers in Bengal's political circle said such aggressive campaign by a chief minister in a by-election is unprecedented.

"The ruling party is always in advantageous position in any by-election. The TMC is definitely much ahead of the BJP since it secured a victory with thumping majority in the assembly elections. The CM returned to her erstwhile constituency after being defeated in Nandigram and her desperation appears to be an effort to ensure victory with a record margin," said Dr Bishnupriya Dutta Gupta, a political science professor.

In all her campaigns, Mamata has made it clear that she is counting on each and every vote in the constituency.

No ceasefire in 'militant-free' city

Srinagar sees multiple attacks this year claiming lives of over dozen security men, civilians

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

SRINAGAR, which was declared 'militant-free' by the police in August 2020, has witnessed six hit-and-run attacks on security personnel, seven encounters and at least 14 grenade attacks in this year.

The first hit-and-run attack in Srinagar this year took place on February 19 when militants shot dead two policemen at Baghat Chowk. Since then, the militants have carried out five more such attacks in the city. In total, six policemen and three paramilitary CRPF personnel were killed. The slain policemen include a CID inspector and Sub Inspector Arshid Mir who was shot dead by militants in Khanyar on September 12.

Seven encounters between militants and security forces have also taken place in Srinagar this year. In these gunfights, which took place both in the Civil Lines and downtown areas, 14 militants of different outfits were killed.

Three civilians were also shot dead by militants in Srinagar. Another civilian lost his life in a grenade attack on security forces. There have been at least 14 grenade attacks by militants targeting security forces in the city. Over two dozen civilians and security men were injured in these attacks.

The police had declared Srinagar 'militant-free' in August last year. "In August last year, there was zero presence of militants in Srinagar. However, in the first week of September last year, militant Abbas Sheikh shifted his base from Kulgam in south Kashmir to Srinagar and seven more militants also joined him in Srinagar," Inspector General of Police (IGP) Kashmir Vijay Kumar said.

Abbas Sheikh and his deputy were killed in an encounter with security forces in Aloochoi Bagh area of uptown Srinagar on August 23. The IGP said of the eight militants active in Srinagar, five have been killed in encounters.

"Besides, there are 10-15 Over Ground Workers (OGWs) of militants in Srinagar," he said adding, "We will either be killing the remaining militants in Srinagar or arresting them".

In Punjab, all political parties
minus BJP support bandh

HARPREET BAIWA @Chandigarh

IN Punjab, all political parties minus BJP supported the Bharat Bandh call against the three farm laws.

Former Haryana chief minister and leader of the opposition, Bhupinder Singh Hooda, said that the Union government should talk to the protesting farmers without putting any prior condition.

Punjab CM Charanjit Singh Channi tweeted: "I Stand With Farmers & appeal the Union Govt to repeal the three anti-farmer laws. Our farmers have been struggling for their rights for more than a year and it is high time that their voice was heard. I request the farmers to raise their voice in a peaceful manner."

Punjab Congress president Navjot Singh Sidhu said the PPCC firmly stood by the Bharat Bandh call. "Punjab Pradesh Congress Committee firmly stands by farmer unions' demand for Bharat Bandh on 27 Sept 2021. In the war of right and wrong, you cannot afford to be neutral!! We urge every Congress worker to fight the call by actively participating in it. AAP MLA and Kisan Wing state president, Kultar Singh Sandhwan, said the nationwide shutdown by the farmers had given a clear-cut message to the Modi government and the BJP that the farmers couldn't be suppressed at any cost and wouldn't go back till the black farm laws were repealed.

'Jai-Veeru' now resonates as
'Kaka-Baba' in Chhattisgarh

EJAZ KAISER @Raipur

A month after the show of strength by Chhattisgarh Congress MLAs and leaders in support of Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel in Delhi, uncertainty prevails over the much talked about 2.5 years power-sharing formula. Political pundits maintain that after Punjab, it's just a matter of time, as the focus of the party high command will shift to Chhattisgarh. The 'Jai-Veeru' combo earlier referring to the close bond between Baghel and health minister T S Singhdeo — the two in the power-sharing arrangement — is now 'Kaka-Baba'.

While Singhdeo remains popular as 'Baba', the CM now rejoices with his new identity

'Kaka' among the supporters. Singhdeo reiterates that the issue revolving around the power-sharing formula that media is often raking up will soon be resolved and equally acceptable to all Congressmen in Chhattisgarh.

"The transformation of a relationship from Jai-Veeru to Kaka-Baba yet again symbolises the power struggle, but uncertainty continues over the two-and-a-half-year arrangement," says Ashok Tomar, a political observer.

"In one of his recent speeches, Baghel addressed his supporters saying, 'Kaka Abhi Zinda hai' (Kaka is still alive). This is an apparent stand publicly taken by Baghel to assert that he remains the chief minister," Tomar adds.

Congress renames damaged roads after ministers

Staging a novel protest over the damaged roads in Bhopal, the opposition Congress renamed the pothole-ridden roads after the state's ministers, including PWD Minister Gopal Bhargava, Urban Development and Housing Minister Bhupendra Singh and local MLA and Medical Education Minister Vishvas Sarang. The Opposition also roped in priests for the renaming rituals. The damaged roads of Bhopal have become a major issue, particularly after Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan had expressed his angst over the poor state of roads at a meeting with officials last month.

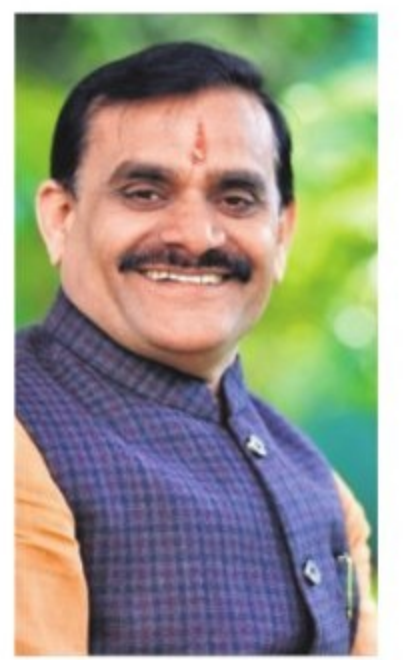

Instagrammer in trouble over dance in temple

Instagrammer Arti Sahu is in trouble for posting the videos of her dance at a temple in Madhya Pradesh's Chhatarpur district. The local police have lodged a case under Section 298 (Whoever, with the deliberate intention of wounding the religious feelings of any person, utters any word or makes any sound in the hearing of that person or makes any gesture in the sight of that person or places any object in the sight of that person, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to one year, or with fine, or with both) of IPC against the Instagrammer on the complaint of local Bajrang Dal leaders. Sahu, who has 2.5 million followers, had recently posted the videos of her dance on Bollywood numbers in Janrai Toriya temple, but removed the posts after protests.

State BJP president
slams bureaucracy

After former CM Uma Bharti and present Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan, it was the turn of state BJP president and Khajuraho MP VD Sharma to slam the state's bureaucracy. Speaking at an event recently in his constituency, Sharma asked bureaucrats to sit in their offices when the public visits the offices for various needs. He warned strict action against erring officers and added that those who didn't want to sit in the offices should quit and search newer jobs. Just a few days back, former chief minister Uma Bharti had kicked up a row, stating that bureaucracy was meant to carry politicians' slippers.

Ex-LoP meets minister,
triggers speculations

Former leader of the opposition and senior Congress leader Ajay Singh Rahu's recent meeting with Madhya Pradesh Home Minister Narottam Mishra at latter's residence in state capital Bhopal has made political circles abuzz in the BJP-ruled central Indian state. The 40-minute-long meeting, followed by many saffron party leaders extending wishes to Singh over social media platforms on his birthday, further kept rumour mills churning about Singh joining the ruling party in near future. Just a few days later, Congress leader, however, put to rest all those speculations by announcing that he is and will always be in the grand old party.

Fuel prices set to increase further

Crude may hit $90 a barrel by Dec as economic activity rebounds quicker than expected

JONATHAN ANANDA @ Chennai

ALREADY selling at record highs, auto fuels are expected to get even dearer for Indian consumers over the next few months. Notwithstanding the brief dip in crude oil prices due to a high number of delta variant Covid-19 cases in July and August, a faster-than-expected bounce-back in economic activity has resulted in a swift increase in prices too — a trend that is expected to continue over the rest of 2021.

Brent crude is currently trading at just under $80 a barrel on the spot market, a level not seen since October 2018. A September 26 Goldman Sachs research note says that despite the OPEC+’s decision to continue with their plan to increase production, the quick recovery from the delta variant is set to push oil prices to $90 a barrel by the year-end.

Oil prices have surged a steep 23% over this past month, going from $64.75 a barrel on Aug 20 to $79.48 on Sept 27. And Indian fuel prices have begun to reflect the trend.

After having kept diesel rates unchanged between Sept

5-23, oil marketing companies (OMC) have rolled out hikes three times in the last 4 days, adding 70 paise a litre to prices. On Monday, diesel traded at ₹89.32 in New Delhi, ₹96.94 in Mumbai, ₹93.93 in Chennai, and ₹92.42 in Kolkata.

OMCs usually set fuel rates based on a 15-day rolling average of international benchmark prices. The dip in crude prices over July and August had resulted in marginal cuts in petrol and diesel rates in the second half of August. Diesel prices had fallen from ₹89.87 on August 17 to ₹88.62 on September 5. Petrol prices fell from an all-time high of ₹101.84 (New Delhi) on August 21 to ₹101.19 on September 5.

Industry sources say petrol prices are also likely to start rising if oil prices keep going north — as Goldman Sachs expects. “The current global supply-demand deficit is larger than we expected, with the recovery in global demand from the Delta impact even faster than our above-consensus forecast and with global supply remaining short of our below consensus forecasts,” the research note said.

Govt sticks to FY22 target; to borrow ₹5.03 lakh cr in H2

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

BUOYED by sharp increase in tax collection and savings through expenditure cuts, the government has stuck to its gross borrowing target of ₹12.05 lakh crore in 2021-22 as it announced its borrowing plan for the second half of the year.

Announcing its borrowing plan for the second half, the government informed in a statement that the effective borrowing in first half of 2021-22 was ₹7.02 lakh crore and the government now plans to borrow the balance ₹5.03 lakh crore in second half year.

The government’s second half borrowing amounting to ₹5.03 lakh crore is likely to be conducted in 21 weekly tranches of ₹23,000-24,000 crore each.

Borrowing will be spread under 2, 5, 10, 14, 30 and 40-year securities with 10-year bonds accounting for 28.4% of the total borrowing followed by 40-year bonds at 15.1% and 30-year papers at 13.9%. Around 9% of the amount will be borrowed via floating rate bonds.

₹7.02 L cr

Planned via 10-year bonds

To take care of temporary mismatches in the government account, Reserve Bank of India has fixed the Ways and Means Advance (WMA) limit for the second half at ₹50,000 crore.

The estimated ₹5.03 lakh crore gross borrowing also include requirements for release of balance amount to states on account of back-to-back loan facility in lieu of GST compensation during the year.

In the first half of the financial year, the government borrowed at weighted average yield at 6.19% and weighted average maturity at 16.69 years.

Commenting on the government’s borrowing plan, chief economist of CARE Ratings Madan Sabnavis told The New Indian Express that the government may not require higher borrowing unless the disinvestment slips badly. He says that the government might use proceeds from small savings or drawdown of cash balances in case of fiscal deficit slips more due to lower realisation from disinvestment or relief given to the telecom sector.

Existing foreign trade policy to be extended till Mar ‘22: Goyal

P TI @ New Delhi

COMMERCE and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal on Monday said the existing foreign trade policy (FTP) will be extended for six months till March 31 next year.

The government had earlier extended the FTP 2015-20 until September 30 this year due to the Covid-19 crisis. The FTP provides guidelines for enhancing exports to push economic growth and create jobs.

“We are notifying it today evening or tomorrow... We have decided to extend the policy (2015-20) until March 31 (2022)... and in the (new) financial year, we can start with the new policy,” he told reporters here.

He expressed hope that by that time, Covid-19 issues would be resolved and stakeholder consultation would be carried out for the new policy.

“Since we have still not overcome the entire Covid issues, a lot of consultation which was expected to go in, is still continuing,” Goyal said at the closing ceremony of Vanijya Saptah, organised by the ministry and the Federation of Indian Export Organisations (FIEO).

On March 31, 2020, the government had extended the Foreign Trade Policy 2015-20 for one year till March 31, 2021, amid the coronavirus outbreak and the lockdown.

Under the FTP, the government provide incentives under different schemes such as Duty Free Import Authorisation (DFIA) and Export Promotion Capital Goods (EPCG). Exports during April-September 21, 2021, stood at over $185 billion, Goyal added. Going by the trend, the country will achieve the $400 billion target for this fiscal, the minister said.

Nine non-farm sectors see 29% growth in jobs since 2013-14, says govt

SAMIKSHA GOEL @ New Delhi

INDIA has seen a growth of 29% in employment across nine sectors in April-June 2021 over 2013-14, according to a report of the Quarterly Employment Survey (QES) released on Monday by the Labour Ministry.

The Q1 report of the All-India Quarterly Establishment-based Employment Survey (AQEES), released by Labour and Employment Minister Bhupendra Patel, estimates the total employment across the selected sectors at 3.8 crore against a total of 2.37 crore in these sectors taken collectively, as reported in the sixth Economic Census (2013-14).

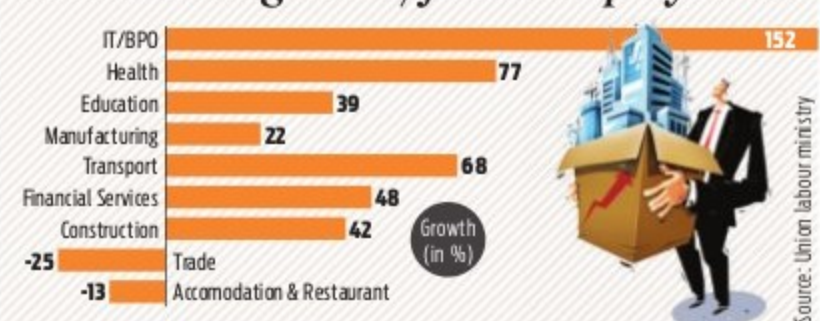

The nine sectors are IT/BPO, manufacturing, construction, trade, transport, education, health, accommodation & restaurant, and financial services. “Of the total employment estimated in the selected nine sectors, manufacturing accounts for nearly 41% followed by education with 22%, and health 8%. Trade as well as IT/BPO each engaged 7% of the total estimated number of workers,” the minister said.

The survey reveals the most impressive growth of 152% in the IT/BPO sector. The growth rates in health stands at 77%, education 39%, manufacturing 22%, transport 68% and construction 42%. However, employment in trade came down by 25% and accommodation & restaurant industry saw a 13% drop. Financial services, on the other hand, witnessed a growth of 48% in job.

Regarding the impact of the pandemic on employment, the survey suggests that in the organised non-farm segment of the Indian economy, it has been found that pandemic-induced employment retrenchment/decline was evident in 27% of the establishments.

The silver lining, however, is that 81% of the workers received full wages during the lockdown period. “A total of 16% received reduced wages and around 3% were denied any wages. In the health and financial services sector, more than 90% workers received full wages. However, in the Construction sector, 27% had to accept reduced wages and 7% were left with none,” it adds.

IN HIGH COURT

CCI to probe Google’s alleged data leak

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Competition Commission of India (CCI) has promised the Delhi High Court to form a committee to look into the allegations of leaking sensitive information to media about an investigation related to Google.

The court has allowed Google to take appropriate legal recourse in case of a breach of the statement made by CCI in the court. Google had moved court seeking a direction restraining the CCI from directly or indirectly making public the information submitted by it to the Director General during the investigation being carried out under Section 26 of the Competition Act, 2002. The Director General is the investigation arm of the CCI.

The investigation in question is related to a 2019 case on abuse of dominant position by Google with Android. Google had pleaded before the court that the CCI had not granted it a hearing against the Director General’s order in respect of Google’s confidentiality request over its information.

Toyota to stop selling sedan Yaris in India

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THREE years after the gung-ho launch, Japanese automaker Toyota (TKM) is discontinuing sales of its mid-size sedan Yaris from India. While Toyota says this is part of its new product strategy under which the company plans to launch some new models in India in 2022, sales numbers of Yaris tell a different story.

TKM sold only 295 units of Yaris from April-August 2021 as against 13,758 units sold by rival Honda’s City, 9,839 units by Hyundai’s Verna and 6,114 units by Maruti Suzuki’s Ciaz. According to Siam data, TKM manufactured and sold zero units of Yaris in August 2021, indicating the company had plans to phase out Yaris from India. This is also not the first time when TKM, which is known in India for selling Innova Crysta and Fortuner SUV, has decided to discontinue a model due to low demand.

Last year the company had discontinued its entire Etios series from April 1, 2020. The Etios range included three models - Etios Liiva hatchback, Etios sedan and Etios Cross.

Raymond rejigs ops; consolidates auto component and hardware businesses

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

TEXTILE major Raymond on Monday said its board has approved plans to consolidate the tools and hardware and auto components businesses into engineering business for improving synergies and exploring monetisation options for deleveraging the company.

“The overall objective being value creation for shareholders, The engineering business has achieved scale and improved market share in both domestic and global markets. These businesses have demonstrated growth in EBITDA margins, generated free cash flows and are debt free,” the company said in a regulatory filing.

Additionally, the company would consolidate its B2C business by transfer of Apparel

Business into the flagship company Raymond. The company has now withdrawn the demerger scheme of Lifestyle business announced in November, 2019.

“We continue to focus on our B2C business by bringing in operational efficiencies and synergies to strengthen our Lifestyle business,” said Gautam Hari Singhania, Chairman & Managing Director of Raymond Ltd.

Raymond board has also in principle approved the conversion of the real estate division into a wholly-owned subsidiary as the company looks for growth in this space. Launched in 2019, Raymond claims its real estate business will deliver around 3 million sq. ft. of residential projects and they have already achieved sales of over 70% of launched inventory of 2 million sq. ft. “Real Estate business now plans to capitalise on its strengths by extending beyond Thane. To achieve the high growth momentum in real estate business, the board has also given an in principle approval for subsidisation of real estate business division through a wholly owned subsidiary,” said the company.

Hit hard by the pandemic, Raymond had reported a consolidated net loss of ₹157.10 crore for the quarter ended June 2021 as against net loss of ₹247.60 crore during the June quarter of the previous fiscal.

We continue to focus on our B2C business by bringing in operational efficiencies and synergies to strengthen our Lifestyle business —Gautam Hari Singhania, Chairman & Managing Director, Raymond England's seasoned all-rounder Moeen Ali announced his retirement from Test cricket to prolong his career in the white-ball formats. The 34-year-old scored 2,914 runs in 64 Tests at an average of 28.29 with five centuries and picked up 195 wickets with his off-spin bowling at an average of 36.66. His last Test match ended in a defeat to India at The Oval recently.

Focus on Pandya ahead of T20 WC

All-rounder's fitness to bowl four overs will decide his availability for India in big-ticket event

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

THE participation of all-rounder Hardik Pandya in the T20 World Cup hangs in the balance as concerns remain over his fitness. The 27-year-old didn't play the first two matches for Mumbai Indians in the UAE, before making a comeback for Sunday's match against Royal Challengers Bangalore. However, Pandya didn't bowl leading to questions over his fitness.

India have already named their squad for the T20 World Cup, which begins on October 17. And while announcing the squad, chairman of selectors Chetan Sharma had said Pandya was fully fit and he would be able to bowl his quota of overs at the World Cup. Since then, there hasn't been any update on the all-rounder's fitness. Even when he missed the first two matches of the UAE leg, Mumbai Indians' bowling coach Shane Bond said they are trying to balance the needs of the Indian team without getting into the specifics.

"We're obviously balancing the needs of our team and the needs of team India as well. It's the one thing that this franchise does really well... is look after its players with an eye not only to win this competition but an eye to the World Cup," Bond said.

While Bond did concede that Pandya has been training since September 23, it is understood that the selectors and the Indian team management are keeping a close tab on his fitness. Ever since he underwent a back surgery in 2020, Pandya hasn't bowled as regularly as he used to. During the Australia tour, Pandya bowled four overs in the second ODI against the advice of the team management, who wanted to gradually increase his workload keeping in mind the T20 World Cup. By the time India hosted England at home in February-March, Pandya bowled regularly in the T20Is. He completed his quota of four overs in three matches and bowled two and three overs in two matches. In the ODIs that followed, he didn't bowl in the first two matches, before sending down 9 overs in the third.

When the IPL began in India, he didn't bowl in any of the seven matches as he was managing his workload. During the Sri Lanka tour in July, he bowled five, four and five overs in the three ODIs and two overs in the lone T20I before missing the final two as he was identified as a close contact of his brother Krunal, who had tested Covid-19 positive. So Pandya picking and choosing matches where he bowls isn't entirely new as it has been the norm for a while as he is managing his workload.

Roy & Williamson guide SRH to win

MARTIN JOSEPH @Kochi

THERE are days when Sanju Samson's obvious ability comes to the fore and takes your breath away. Monday was one of those days. Samson cracked 82 off 57 balls for Rajasthan Royals against Sunrisers Hyderabad to help team post a decent total (164/5). However, that proved to be not enough as Hyderabad, with the help of Jason Roy (60 off 42 balls), chased down the total with nine balls to spare.

Roy was playing his first match this season for the Hyderabad team. He was brought in place of David Warner, who has struggled to get runs. That big move turned out to be the difference-maker as Roy gave Hyderabad a good start. Skipper Kane Williamson (51 n.o.) guided the team over the line.

This was Hyderabad's first win after five straight losses.

Brief scores: Rajasthan 164/5 in 20 overs (Samson 82) lost to Hyderabad 167/3 in 18.3 ovs (Roy 60, Williamson 51 n.o.).

EXPRESS READ

Sudirman Cup: India out of quarterfinal race

VANTAA: The Indian badminton team's chances to qualify for the knockout stages of the Sudirman Cup ended after suffering a 0-5 defeat against formidable China here. It was India's second consecutive defeat after losing the Group A opener to Thailand and now the final match against Finland on Wednesday has been rendered inconsequential. The absence of P V Sindhu, Saina Nehwal and men's doubles pair of Chirag Shetty and Satwiksairaj Rankireddy also hurt India's prospects.

BBL: Shafali, Radha join Sydney Sixers

SYDNEY: Indian teen batting sensation Shafali Verma and left-arm spinner Radha Yadav will make their Women's Big Bash League debut with two-time champions Sydney Sixers, it was officially confirmed on Monday. The signing of the duo by the Sixers has been confirmed by the organisers.

Mohammedan Sporting make Durand Cup final

KOLKATA: Mohammedan Sporting struck twice in the extra time to eke out a tense 4-2 win over a fighting FC Bengaluru United and storm into the Durand Cup final, here on Monday. Following a 2-2 stalemate in regulation time, substitute Brandon Vanlalremdika and Nikola Stojanovic scored for the winners.

Mouth-watering contests

Two of the favourites go head to head as matchday two of the Champions League comes into focus. A look at few of the matches to look forward to on Tuesday...

PSG VS MANCHESTER CITY

One of the standout fixtures of the group stages, both sides know that this could well be a dress rehearsal for a clash deeper in the tournament. Man City's high-line could be exploited by the pace PSG have, even if Lionel Messi is a injury doubt. The Parisiens have won all their eight league games so far but stuttered against Club Brugge on matchday 1. Fresh off a win against rivals Chelsea in the Premier League, Pep Guardiola's men could be feeling the effects of that so could rotate to keep his XI fresh.

MILAN VS ATLETICO

They came close to taking down Liverpool before losing out narrowly but they will look for a sturdier performance at home against a side that's still going through the motion. The La Liga outfit are at their best when they are intense, it's something they haven't been this season: last time out, they lost to Alaves. A youthful Milan team — unbeaten and second in Serie A — could well fancy their chances at home. However, don't expect many goals in this one. The two sides, put together, have conceded only nine goals in 13 league matches.

PORTO VS LIVERPOOL

Mo Salah has showed his class in years past but it's possible that the Egyptian has elevated his goalscoring higher than before. The way he is cutting inside and finding the bottom corner, linking with his fellow attackers and giving a torrid time to opposition left backs in the process... watching him is worth the admission price alone. If he is on the money again, Liverpool could well make it two in two. For Porto, if they can contain him, they do have offensive weapons to cause damage against a defence that's looked somewhat shaky this year.

FIXTURES (12.30 AM unless specified): Group A: PSG vs Man City, RB Leipzig vs Club Brugge, Group B: Milan vs Atletico, Porto vs Liverpool, Group C: Ajax vs Besiktas (10.15 PM), Dortmund vs Sporting, Group D: Shakhar Donetsk vs Inter Milan (10.15 PM), Real Madrid vs Sheriff.

Terrific Tuesday in store

Another double header — Kolkata Knight Riders vs Delhi Capitals and Mumbai Indians vs Punjab Kings — awaits us on Tuesday as the IPL moves towards the business end of the group stage. Talking points...

DC VS KKR

MUST-WIN TERRITORY FOR KKR

KKR have been one of the in-form teams but suffered a blip with a narrow loss to Chennai on Sunday. With four wins from 10 matches, the Eoin Morgan-led side cannot afford too many more slip-ups. Their concern will be the fitness of Andre Russell, who limped off the field without being able to complete his full quota of overs.

DC LOOKING GOOD TO GO DISTANCE

Delhi Capitals finished runners-up in the UAE last season, but everything seems to be in place for them to have another crack at the title this season. The team, led by Rishabh Pant, are comfortably placed with eight wins in 10 matches and just need another victory to guarantee themselves a place in the play-offs.

PUNJAB NEED STABILITY

Having bounced back with a victory over Hyderabad, Punjab now need to get on a winning run, something they have seldom done. In their two games in the UAE so far, they have chopped and changed their overseas combo. They need to settle on their best four foreign players and back them to the hilt.

MIDDLE MUDDLE FOR MUMBAI

Among Mumbai's many concerns, foremost will be the indifferent form of the middle-order. Suryakumar Yadav, Ishan Kishan, Kieron Pollard, Krunal Pandya and Hardik Pandya can instill fear into any attack, but they aren't doing that at the minute. They aren't capitalising on the platform that openers Rohit Sharma and Quinton de Kock are laying for them.

Head-to-head: Matches: 35, KKR: 21, DC: 13, Tied: 1 | Live on SSI @ 3.30 PM

MI VS PBKS

Power of faith does blunt poverty's impact

Is being poor in a rich country better than being poor in a poor one? Researchers have generally thought that was the case, with classic sociology — such as the writings of Max Weber — positing that economically developed nations make it easier for basic needs to be met through welfare services, thereby alleviating the psychological burden of low incomes and promoting well-being. Past surveys indeed supported this hypothesis. But as data from recent world-spanning surveys began to trickle in, researchers found that lower socioeconomic status was associated with unhappiness to a larger degree in rich countries than in poor ones, indicating that economic development alone is not the cure for the gnawing psychological impact of being poor. What explains this discontent? A recent paper in PNAS suggests that the answer may lie in religiosity

People of lower socioeconomic status are four times more likely to suffer from negative psychological effects than more well-off people, past research indicates

THE INEQUALITY QUESTION

Do people of lower socioeconomic status in rich nations have diminished well-being because they can see the jet-set living extravagantly or is it because socioeconomic status is valued more highly in such countries?

This could possibly explain why they feel worse than their counterparts in poor countries, but researchers led by Jane Berkessel from the University of Mannheim, Germany, are looking at it through the lens of religion, which always plays a part in shaping a country's culture

STUDY RESULTS

50 per cent

The decline in religiosity accounts for half of the impact of increasing national economic development on the psychological burden of poverty

The researchers said this shows religion seems to shield people from at least some of the unpleasant effects of poverty. They also said alternatives to religion's "particularly powerful" impact may be tough to find

TEXTUAL ORIGINS

Researchers point out that religion offers psychological comfort for the poor and tends to paint the wealthy in a bad light. This may relieve the mental burden of lower socioeconomic status

The demoniac person thinks: So much wealth do I have today, and I will gain more

Bhagavad Gita, Ch. 16, Verse 13

It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God

The Bible, Matthew 19:24

The poor are admitted into Paradise before the rich, by five hundred years

The Quran, Vol. 5, Book 37, Hadith 4261

For those who are poor and destitute; May I turn into all things they could need

Bodhi-sattvacharya-vatara, Ch. 3, Verse 10

MODERNITY'S SECULAR NATURE

Surveys indicate that the richer a country is the less religious it tends to be. Berkessel has focused on these low scores of national religiosity to explain people's lower well-being. To draw the connections between socioeconomic status, well-being, national economic development and national religiosity, Berkessel et al crunched together three large global datasets:

INTERPRETATION

It's not fully clear why religion seems to have this positive psychological effect. It could also be that faith isn't merely a personal matter for many; social networks built through families, friends and institutions on the basis of religion do offer moral support as well

SURPRISING FINDINGS

In some of the world's most religious nations, the negative mental impact of poverty was absent altogether

WHY THIS IS IMPORTANT

In a world that is growing sharply unequal in terms of wealth, it is useful for policymakers to understand how a relatively low status may make people feel and how the negativity can be minimised

Companies warn of China supply chain chaos

Peak production season in world's 2nd biggest economy may be disrupted, say electronic-component makers

ECONOMICS

BEIJING: Global shoppers face possible shortages of smartphones and other goods ahead of Christmas after power cuts to meet official energy use targets forced Chinese factories to shut down and left some households in the dark.

In the northeastern city of Liaoyang, 23 people were hospitalized with gas poisoning after ventilation in a metal casting factory was shut off following a power outage, according to state broadcaster CCTV. No deaths were reported.

Factories were idled to avoid exceeding limits on energy use imposed by Beijing to promote efficiency. Experts say manufacturers used up this year's quota faster than planned as export demand rebounded from the coronavirus pandemic.

Apple components supplier Eson Precision Engineering said it would halt production at its factory in Kunshan, west of Shanghai, through Thursday "in line with the local government's power restriction policy." Eson said the suspension shouldn't have a "significant impact" on operations.

Unimicron Technology, a major print circuit-board maker who is also an Apple supplier, said its units in Jiangsu province needed to stop production till end of the month, Nikkei

Asia reported. iPhone speaker component supplier Concraft told the newspaper that it will halt production for five days.

Several crucial suppliers for Intel, Nvidia, and Qualcomm also received notices to suspend production for several days, Nikkei Asia said, citing unnamed sources. Another chi-packaging material maker, Chang Wah Technology, is stopping production as well.

The disruption to China's vast manufacturing industries during one of their busiest seasons reflects the ruling Communist Party's struggle to balance economic growth with efforts to rein in pollution and emissions of climate-changing gases.

Utility companies, meanwhile, are being squeezed by soaring coal and gas prices. That discourages them from increasing output because the government limits their ability to pass on costs to customers.

Global financial markets already were on edge about the possible collapse of one of China's biggest real estate developers, Evergrande Group, which is struggling to avoid a default on billions of dollars of debt.

Manufacturers have been facing shortages of processor chips, disruptions in shipping and other lingering effects of the global Covid lockdowns.

Will disruptions persist?

If the energy limits force suspensions on factory activity next month, there will be knock-on effects throughout the supply chain, manufacturers told Nikkei Asia.

The power crunch comes ahead of a UN environmental conference by video link on Oct. 12-13 in Kunming.

New Wikipedia CEO looks to global south

TECHNOLOGY

THE non-profit that operates Wikipedia has a new CEO, Maryana Iskander (and yes, she has a Wikipedia page). She'll take over at the Wikimedia Foundation in Jan and says that her priorities are diversifying Wikipedia's volunteer writers and editors and promoting the foundation's mission of advocating for access to information.

She recently talked with The AP about her plans for the online encyclopedia.

Q: Wikipedia is famously created and edited by its army of volunteer contributors. What do the Wikimedia Foundation's 500-plus employees do?

A: The foundation itself enables the actual platform and the software and the technology. It's a big operation to be able to do that. We also provide support to these communities all over the world in different forms because their needs are very different. We do a huge amount of policy and advocacy work.

Q: What are the biggest challenges for Wikipedia?

A: Most of the content on Wikipedia comes from the global north. It doesn't represent the full sum of human knowledge. How do we get more content both about and from people in the global south?

A second priority is that most of the issues that Wikipedia faces are not Wikipedia's alone. And so how do you think about building ecosystems with other partners (to deal with) online harassment or misinformation. None of these are things that a single organization or a single platform can solve on its own.

Q: Contributors are heavily male and most often come from Europe and North America. How do you want to involve more women and people from other countries?

A: Every country and frankly, language community, is different. But one of the things that we've learned about how Wikipedia has increased its presence in Nigeria is that it's important to first try to raise awareness about Wikipedia, so that people have an understanding of it as a resource.

FB hits pause on Instagram for children

TECHNOLOGY

FACEBOOK is putting a hold on the development of a kids' version of Instagram, geared toward children under 13, to address concerns that have been raised about the vulnerability of younger users.

The announcement follows a investigative series by The Wall Street Journal which reported that Facebook was aware that the use of Instagram by some teen girls led to mental health issues and anxiety.

Yet the development of Instagram for a younger audience was met with broader opposition almost immediately.

Facebook announced the development of an Instagram Kids app in March, saying at the time that it was "exploring a parent-controlled experience." Two months later, 44 US attorneys general wrote to CEO Mark Zuckerberg, urging him to abandon the project.

Flossing boosts brain function?

STUDY

Flossing not only helps in preventing bad breath, avoiding cavities and gum disease but also boosts cognitive health, a meta-analysis in Journal of the American Medical Directors Association has found. Researchers looked at 14 studies, which included 34,074 participants and 4,689 cases with diminished cognitive function. People with more tooth loss had 1.48 times higher risk of cognitive impairment and 1.28 times higher risk of dementia than the others. And with each additional missing tooth, the risk of cognitive impairment grows. Moreover, adults with tooth loss were more likely to have cognitive decline if they did not have dentures. How does poor dental health affect brain cells? The bacteria that cause gingivitis can spread to the brain.

Big drop in life expectancy

DATA

The Covid-19 pandemic triggered life expectancy losses not seen since the World War II in Western Europe. Oxford University researchers assembled an unprecedented dataset on mortality from 29 countries, spanning most of Europe, the US and Chile. They found that 27 of the 29 countries saw reductions in life expectancy in 2020, and at a scale which wiped out years of progress on mortality, according to the paper in the International Journal of Epidemiology. Twenty-two countries included in the study experienced larger losses than half a year in 2020. Women in eight countries and males in 11 experienced losses larger than a year, said Dr Jose Manuel Aburto, from Oxford's Leverhulme Centre for Demographic Science.

Relaunch of Covid origin probe

SCIENCE

The World Health Organization (WHO) is set to relaunch investigations into the origins of the Covid-19, with a fresh probe team, the media reported. A new team consists of about 20 scientists, and includes specialists in laboratory safety and biosecurity and geneticists and animal-disease experts versed in how viruses spill over from nature. They will hunt for new evidence in China and elsewhere, the Wall Street Journal reported. A joint WHO-China inquiry, whose findings were released in March this year, had dismissed the possibility that the virus had emerged accidentally from a laboratory as "extremely unlikely." Undermining its own report, Director General Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus in July proposed a second phase of studies in Wuhan.

Small island nations such as Maldives caught between tourism economy & climate change

ENVIRONMENT

NEW YORK: Come visit the Maldives, its president entreated the world at this year's United Nations General Assembly, moments before switching to an impassioned plea for help combating climate change. The adjacent appeals illustrated a central dilemma for many small island developing states: Their livelihoods, or their lives?

The United Nations recognises 38 member states, scattered across the world's waters, as small island developing states grouped together because they face "unique social, economic and environmental challenges." This bloc is particularly vulnerable to climate change. This bloc is also particularly dependent on tourism — a significant driver of climate change, accountable for 8% of global carbon dioxide emissions, according to sustainable tourism expert Stefan Gössling — and an industry devastated by the coronavirus pandemic.

The predicament these islands find themselves in is essentially recursive: Attract tourism for economic survival, which in turn contributes to climate change, which in turn bleaches the colourful reefs and destroys the pristine beaches that attract tourists. As is, by the end of the century, these low-lying islands could drown entirely.

"The difference between 1.5 degrees and 2 degrees is a death sentence for the Maldives," President Ibrahim Mohamed Solih told the UN General Assembly last week.

The annual summit is an opportunity for each of the international body's 193 members to step into the spotlight on the world stage. But the Maldives

Ibrahim M Solih, president of Maldives

— perhaps best known globally as an Indian Ocean playground for moneyed honeymooners and Bollywood celebrities — had a high-profile platform this year. Its foreign minister is serving as the General Assembly's president and Solih was speaking third overall — just after the US President.

But the climate change appeals are nothing new, made year after year as these islands are pummeled by storms and the seas rise like a "slow-moving killer," as Colgate University's April Baptiste puts it.

Baptiste, a professor of environmental studies as well as African and Latin American studies, researches environmental justice in the Caribbean region. She says the island states' appeals had gone ignored for years because they were essentially seen as "dispensable." With little land, political power and financial capital, it was easy to overlook their plight. These are also islands with a history of exploitation that dates back centuries and states whose full-time residents — not tourists — are primarily Black and brown.

"You have that layer of race, racism, marginality to take into consideration," she said. "I absolutely believe that's at the heart of the conversation as to why small island developing states are not taken seriously."

People and governments have taken matters into their own hands over recent years.

One man from the island nation of Kiribati sought refugee status in New Zealand on the basis that climate change posed an existential threat to his homeland, though he was eventually deported. This past week, Vanuatu announced it would seek to bring climate change before the International Court of Justice, though the move is largely symbolic.

MAHARAJAS, MODERN INDIA & MORE

In his latest book, award-winning author Manu S Pillai expresses his larger argument: that the princely states were not just about palaces and elephants, but were spaces whose political history and peoples' experiences shaped the country

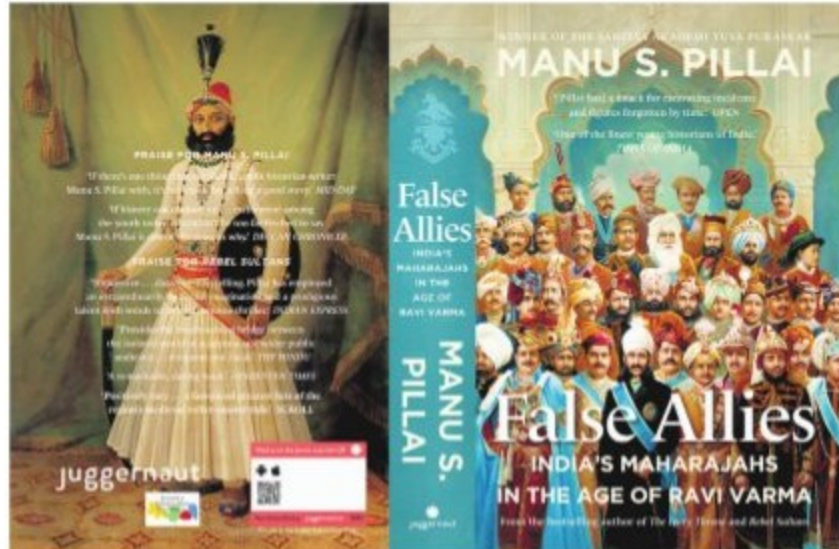

ANILA KURIAN

WAY before he turned 30, Manu S Pillai had several accolades and achievements to his credit. Having risen to fame with The Ivory Throne: Chronicles of the House of Travancore, the young historian and writer is now creating a buzz with his latest release, False Allies: India's Maharajahs in the Age of Ravi Varma, which was recently launched in Bengaluru.

Talking about the book, Pillai says, "Given that I have focused on five princely states on the basis of Ravi Varma's travels and work in these states, his portraits of their rajahs and rani were an important source. In official portraiture, for example, one can find all kinds of clues and signals as to how rulers wished to project themselves; their stance, clothes, the objects in the background, all hold meaning."

His research included the archival material, collected from places as diverse as the National Library of Scotland to India's National Archives in Delhi and a royal tutor's diary from 1920 that took him years to track.

"I also make much use of old newspaper archives, because they hold such a wealth of first-hand information, as also British parliamentary reports, and so on," he says, adding that the princely states were also sites of anti-colonial resistance in their own way, which is why the book is titled False Allies.

For over a decade now, Pillai has been researching Ravi Varma and parts of the Travancore chapters. The book, in fact, originally began through a grant from the Sandeep & Gitanjali Maini Foundation and was meant to be an internal resource for the Raja Ravi Varma Heritage Foundation. But that idea changed owing to the book's larger appeal.

Giving us a sneak peek into his discoveries, Pillai shares something he found on Ravi Varma that none of the other biographers have found over the last century — Ravi Varma's father-in-law was embroiled in a murder case. "Of course, this does not directly touch the artist himself; Ravi Varma had not yet married the man's daughter at the time of the scandal. But even so, I was taken aback that there was so much material on it, especially in newspapers from Bombay to London, and yet it never appeared in narratives about the painter's life," Pillai says.

So, what's he like when he's not writing? "Very private! It's best if people know my books, rather than me. I am not all that interesting outside of that. Or at least not in any predictable ways," he says with a laugh.

'Dr Tharoor works very, very hard'

Having worked very closely with Shashi Tharoor as chief of staff in his Delhi office, Manu Pillai has picked up a few habits of his. He says, "Dr Tharoor works very, very hard, and that does not always come across because he wears it all very lightly. I have seen his study light on till 2 and 3 am, and when I was doing my first book, it motivated me to also focus and keep going. I have had the privilege of working with him and seeing how things are behind the scenes. It is not easy to write books, travel the world to speak at major conferences, win elections thrice in a row, and hold it all together—it can only be done through hard work," Pillai says.

When stress takes over, this celebrity cosmetologist turns her attention to mandala art and doodling

SANATH PRASAD

AFTER a hectic work day of consultations, Bengaluru-based cosmetic dermatologist Dr Mikki Singh often found herself dealing with insomnia. What followed was a constant sense of fatigue and restlessness. When it started affecting her mental health, Singh, on an impulse, started doodling. This, after she stumbled upon mandala art works and doodles on the internet.

"I came across a mandala art one night when I was struggling to fall asleep. Although I did not have any tools to work on the design on my own, I got hold of plates of different sizes and put it on paper and drew a mandala art. It was very calming and since then I started my journey with art," says Singh, who discovered this hack in 2017.

According to Singh, art-works need concentration, focus and a steady hand. "The days I get upset, I always look forward to art. It helps me unwind and de-stress. I'm completely self-taught," says Singh, the head of Bodycraft Spa, Salon and Clinic.

From using pencils to micro pens for artwork, Singh has come a long way. She looks for inspiration on sites like Pinterest after which she improvises on the designs. "White is my favourite colour. I maintain a black and white template throughout my artwork. Tirupati Balaji temple, Indian mythological figures, sun signs, animals, geometric designs are some of the themes I work on. I usually add my own style by mixing doodle and mandala art," says Singh, who also picked up the art of arranging flowers during the lockdown. "I do all of this only for fun. I do it when I need to unwind. And it's a hobby that comes in handy during special occasions," says Singh with a laugh.

Singh also draws some principles from her medical profession and applies them in her artwork. "As a cosmetologist, I like making people look good. I understand facial geometry very well. All of this aligns with my hobby," says Singh, who is also an avid reader. "I usually spend time on art work at nights when everybody is asleep and the surroundings are quiet."

During the first lockdown, I felt like a hostage at home and was often frustrated and angry. That's also a time when sketching came to my rescue," adds Singh, who feels that soothing music in the background helps her creative juices flow.

IFE, post retirement, can be as exciting as the working tenure is what this community project radio station goes to show. Seniors in Bengaluru, including those living at retirement homes, have now busied themselves in a new hobby — hosting a radio talk show. In addition to music, poetry, and mono acting, it also has segments on science. Working with city-based community radio Sarathi Jhalak, the seniors have been writing songs, recalling old stories and putting together skits to keep listeners entertained. With four shows every week starting November, the six community radio stations will hear programmes that the senior citizens have worked on. Shamantha DS, who runs the all-women radio station, has been working with retirement homes to make this happen. Speaking to CE, Shamantha says, "This is a new initiative by the Department of Science and Technology in Delhi and Alagappa University in Tamil Nadu. The idea is also to empower senior citizens on science and technology as part of the 'Scienceotainment' initiative."

With the project named 'Anubhav', they have already recorded pilot videos with some of the senior citizens. Shamantha says, "When we went to a senior home called Manasum Avighna earlier this month and suggested the idea to them, they were ecstatic. We pitched the idea to them on Friday evening, and by Sunday morning, they had everything from the script to a patriotic song ready to be recorded."

SEQUEL WILL BE MORE OF A FUN RIDE: JAGGESH

THE ACTOR OPENS UP ABOUT HIS FILM WITH DIRECTOR RAMESH INDRA. THE SEQUEL, BANKROLLED BY SHRUTI NAIDU, WILL GO ON FLOORS IN EARLY 2022

A SHARADHA

JAGGESH is glad to have good scripts coming his way. The Navarasa Nayaka of Sandalwood, who recently signed a film with director Santhosh Anandram, titled, Raghavendra Stores has greenlit yet another project - a sequel to Premier Padmini. Director Ramesh Indira and producer Shruti Naidu recently met Jaggesh to discuss the script. The actor is said to be mighty impressed with the story.

According to Shruti Naidu, Jaggesh and Pramod will be part of the project, and the team is looking to bring in more actors. "Premier Padmini was released in 2019 and turned out to be an emotional roller coaster. However, the sequel will be more of a fun ride," says Shruti, who plans to begin the shooting in 2022.

"Ramesh Indira has proved his mettle with Premier Padmini, and the team had immediately planned to start the sequel," says Jaggesh. However, the project got delayed due to the Covid pandemic. "Yet, the covid lockdown turned out to be an advantage to the director in a way. They had time to develop the script. I recently met the team and was impressed by the script," says the actor.

Jaggesh adds, "Right now, I have a handful of good projects in hand, which will keep me busy in the coming months." Jaggesh is looking forward to the release of director Vijay Prasad's Totapuri this year. "I am currently shooting for Ranganayaka and will begin my project with Santhosh Anandram in November. Then I will follow it with the Premier Padmini sequel," he signs off.

Aptaker and Berger both wrote the script for 2015's Love, Simon as well as several episodes of This is Us. The duo also co-created the Hulu series, Love, Victor.

technique Taapsee Pannu follows in picking films is to put herself in the shoes of the audience. "I ask myself whether I would spend my money and my precious two hours on such a film. I ask if people will forget me when they walk out of the theatre. When I look back at my filmography after I retire, will I be embarrassed or proud of the film? These questions help me pick films."

The lockdown gave her a lot of time for introspection. "Even before that, I used to take time off after every film to relax my mind and body." That's why she also doesn't allow for overlapping shooting schedules. "It's not healthy and I dislike the idea of working without breaks. Right now, however, I have a lot of commitments on my plate, thanks to the delays enforced by the pandemic," she says. Her upcoming films include Rashmi Rocket, Loop Lapeta, Dobaaraa, Shabaash Mithu, Mishan Impossible, Jana Gana Mana (her next Tamil film), and her maiden production venture, Blurr. A few of these films even have overlapping schedules that she dislikes. "I could never have accounted for a lockdown when I said yes to these films. There's a lot of capital involved, and so, there is pressure."

Taapsee recently resumed training for Shabaash Mithu, the biopic of Mithali Raj, the captain of the Indian Women's cricket team. "We need to wrap up the film within the next two months as we aim to have the

'I have more freedom as a producer than as an actor'

Taapsee Pannu

Taapsee Pannu speaks with us about the film, preparing for the upcoming Mithali Raj biopic, and issues like the pay disparity film come out during the Women's World Cup in March next year. It's the first-ever women-in-blue film," says Taapsee. Her next Tamil film, Jana Gana Mana, however, might take longer to finish work on. "There's a lot of outdoor shooting left, and we will have to travel a lot. I have completed only two schedules, and we are all waiting for restrictions to get relaxed."

Taapsee also launched her production banner, Outsider Films, earlier this year, and will make her debut as a producer with Ajay Bahl's Blurr, for which the crew has completed shooting. "I have been aiming to become a producer for a while now. I want to get more involved in cinema. As an actor, I can't take certain marketing calls. As a producer, I have more freedom." She has three more films in the pipeline as a producer, and one of them, which she can't talk about now, will feature her in the lead.

The actor has been quite vocal on social issues, including the gender pay disparity. She believes that films like Annabelle Sethupathi, her latest Tamil film, that feature a woman in the centre are useful in bridging this gap. "Such cinema ensures that the salary of women actors go up. But there's an obvious pay gap that exists between men and women, with the latter getting only a small percentage of what they deserve. However, the truth is also that there are not as many footfalls in theatres for films led by women as there are for men. We must be mindful of that too." And so, part of the responsibility in finding a solution is with the audience, she says. "When people come in large numbers to watch women in cinema, the conditions for women will improve."
